BATHE THEIR FACES IN DEAD MAN'S BLOOD

Neapolitan Family Thus Show Grief Over Gardina's Murder—Aged Man Strikes Blow.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Pietro Guardina, a Neapolitan fish dealer of Brooklyn, was murdered by a Sicilian, Antonio Zirotoli, in Mulberry bend today. Zirotoli is 82 years old, but he wielded a knife, which his wife handed to him, with deadly precision and force sufficient to sever Guardina's jugular.

The Neapolitan's wife and two children, his brother and several other relations were with him when he was murdered, and in a frenzy of grief they knelt beside the body and bathed their faces with the blood that flowed from the wound.

The stabbing was the outcome of a street altercation, of which Zirotoli was merely a spectator at first. The old man became enraged as the fight proceeded, and, suddenly running forward, plunged a knife into Guardina's neck.

Within a very few minutes 1,000 Italians, aroused by the frantic actions of the murdered man's relatives, were rioting amongst themselves and the reserves of two police stations were called out. Before the arrest of Zirotoli was made and the riot quelled two detectives and several uniformed men were severely handled.

KING EDWARD GIVES OSBORNE HOUSE BACK TO HIS LOYAL BRITISH NATION AS A MEMORIAL TO HIS DEAD MOTHER

It Is His Wish That a Part of the Isle of Wight Palace Be Converted Into a Convalescent Home for Officers of the Army and Navy.

THE PEOPLE TO HAVE ACCESS TO SOME APARTMENTS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, Aug. 10.—King Edward has signalized his coronation in a memorable manner by the munificent gift to the nation of Osborne house, Isle of Wight, one of the favorite residences of the late Queen Victoria.

The gift is made in the following message to his people, addressed to Prime Minister Balfour. For reasons apparent in the document itself, the king makes his intention public:

Buckingham Palace, Coronation Day, 1902.

"Under the will of the king's much beloved mother the Osborne house estate is, as Mr. Balfour is aware, the private estate of the sovereign. Having to spend a considerable part of the year in the capital of this kingdom and in its neighborhood at Windsor, and having also strong home ties in the county of Norfolk, which have existed now for nearly 40 years, the king feels he will be unable to make adequate use of Osborne house as a royal residence, and he, accordingly, has determined to offer the property in the Isle of Wight as a gift to the nation.

Sacred to Victoria's Memory.

"As Osborne house is sacred to the memory of the late queen, it is the king's wish that, with the exception of those apartments which were in the personal occupation of her majesty, his people shall always have access to the house, which must ever be associated with her beloved name. As regards the rest of the building, the king hopes it may be devoted to national purposes and be converted into a convalescent home for officers of the navy and army whose health has been impaired in rendering service to their country.

"If, in order to give full legal effect to the king's wishes, it is found that application to parliament be necessary, the king trusts that Mr. Balfour will see that the necessary steps are in due course taken."

The festivities in London were continued today. There were considerable crowds almost all day long in the vicinity of Buckingham palace and along the route of yesterday's procession, viewing the decorations and watching the flow of notable personages to and from the various thanksgiving services. In the evening the Canadian arch which, as an exceptional novelty for Sunday, was brilliantly illuminated, was a great center of attraction and served to bring an immense concourse of people into the neighborhood.

Anxiety Allayed by the Bulletin.

In spite of the welcome announcement made last night that King Edward had borne the fatigues of coronation day well, today's bulletin concerning his health was awaited with a certain degree of anxiety. Perhaps this is the reason that the physicians issued the bulletin at the rather unusual early hour of 9:30 o'clock. Because of the early hour very few people were about when it was posted at the gates of the palace.

After the posting of the bulletin there was still some doubt as to whether the king would drive out today, but the small crowd which remained at Buckingham palace, hopeful to see the sovereign, was finally rewarded by the appearance of the king and queen. Their majesties were accompanied by Princess Victoria, Prince Charles of Denmark, Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia and the crown prince of Deumark and were attended by a large following of the royal household.

The procession drove along the Mall to St. James palace without receiving any notable demonstration from the people. Tickets to the chapel royal had been sparingly granted. The choir boys who took part in the service in the chapel were clad in quaint gowns of crimson and gold lace.

National Anthem Softly Sung.

The service was very simple and there was no sermon. Special prayers for the occasion, however, were read. The service lasted an hour and was brought to a close by the congregation, still upon its knees, singing slowly and softly the first verse of the national anthem.

An almost identical service to the one held at the chapel royal of St. James was conducted at Marlborough house chapel and attended by the prince of Wales and his family and other royal personages. Another official service attended by William Court Gully, speaker of the house of commons, members of the house and the ministers, was held at St. Margaret's church, Westminster. The mayor and corporation of Westminster, in their official robes, were present at this service.

The most interesting of all the services was that held at St. Paul's cathedral. This was essentially a people's service, in gratitude and thankfulness that the sovereign had been restored to health, and it presented a striking contrast to the sad service of supplication held there in June on the day the coronation should have taken place. Today the public was freely admitted to the cathedral and the great edifice was crowded with people in every corner.

Many Notables Present.

The lord mayor of London, Sir Joseph C. Dimsdale, and the corporation of the city attended in state, and in the choir were seated Princess Henry of Battenberg, the duchess of Fife and the duchess of Albany with the royal children, a large number of diplomats, including Joseph H. Choate, the United States ambassador, as well as the earl of Dudley, Lord Rosebery, the earl and countess of Aberdeen, a number of prominent colonial visitors and others.

The very elaborate and prolonged service included several of the musical numbers which were performed at Westminster abbey yesterday and the celebration of holy communion. The sermon was preached by the bishop of London, the Right Rev. Arthur W. Ingram, and the officiating clergy wore capes of cloth of gold, which, with the robes and insignia of the members of the corporation of the city and brilliant dresses of the ladies in the congregation, made a striking picture. The scene was especially impressive when at the close of the service the vast gathering joined in singing the national anthem.

KING SUFFERS NO HARM FROM THE CORONATION

Able to Attend Divine Service in the Royal Chapel With the Queen and Their Guests.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, Aug. 10.—The following bulletin concerning the king's condition was issued today by his physicians:

"His majesty bore the strain of the coronation ceremony perfectly well and experienced but little fatigue. The king had a good night and his condition is in every way satisfactory. No further bulletin will be issued."

King Edward, Queen Alexandra and the royal guests at Buckingham palace attended divine service in the chapel royal of St. James palace this morning. At the close of service the national anthem was sung. Their majesties were loudly cheered by the crowds on the streets as they drove back to Buckingham palace.

DISCORD NOTES IN ADULATION OF ROYALITES

A Widely-Read Weekly Sneers at Princes in the Pageant.

PRAISES KITCHENER AT NOBLES' EXPENSE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, Aug. 10.—The newspapers today have been rather ridiculous in some of their comments of yesterday. To read these papers one would imagine that no one had ever looked to be in better health than did King Edward and that never was seen such an array of beautiful and gracious princesses as shared the ceremony.

One exception to this general tone is found in Reynold's Weekly Newspaper, which, whatever its standing, has, nevertheless, a tremendous circulation among the masses, and at least on this occasion it had a good foundation for its description of and attitude on the crowd of yesterday. The paper acknowledges that "a mighty greeting" was accorded King Edward and Queen Alexandra, but says:

"The one man the populace knew and desired to cheer above them all, was Lord Kitchener. He was no gilded peer, because he was descended on the left hand side from the harem of a seventeenth century monarch. He sat his horse like a Centaur, a grim, stern and never-smiling figure; a man who had accomplished something. History may rate his achievements poor, but history will have to say he worked. The crowd was not repelled by Lord Kitchener's cold and almost callous indifference; it lavished cheers upon him with a very wealth of profusion.

"I wonder, though," continues the writer in Reynold's Weekly Newspaper, "what these mighty personages who, for all the crowd cared, might have been figures in waxwork, thought of the conduct of the multitude. The crowd would have naught to do with your pinchbeck, half-dozed royalties; your Mecklenburg-Strelitzes and your Schleswig-Holsteins, nor even your dukes of Sparta. Crown princess of Germany and Henrys of Prussia were passed by as though they were Dick, Tom and Harry. Even the prince and princess of Wales passed by with little more than a murmur of appreciation. "Perhaps the most satisfactory feature of the occasion was the general refusal of the democracy to make themselves absurd by over-effusive demonstrations. Of the 30 or 40 royal personages, not more than half a dozen aroused what could be called enthusiasm. Queen Alexandra's popularity was once more proved, but some of the princesses were seen to be bowing gracefully in response to no salutations whatever."

PHILIPPINE TRIBUTE.

Largest American War Fleet Ever Gathered in the Orient Salutes King Edward.

MANILA, Aug. 10.—Forty-one American cruisers and gunboats assembled and were dressed at Cavite yesterday, and fired 21 guns at noon in honor of the coronation of King Edward.

This was the largest number of American warships ever together in Asiatic waters.

TRIED TO SELL PALACE.

King Edward Said to Have Tried to Dispose of Osborne House to Waldorf Astor.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—In speaking of the king's gift to the nation of Osborne house, it is recalled that about a year ago dispatches to American newspapers from their London correspondents alleged that King Edward was desirous of disposing by private sale of the edifice for two reasons—its impracticability as a royal residence and the comparatively great cost of its maintenance. It was further alleged that negotiations had been seriously entered into between the king's agents and certain American millionaires for the sale of Osborne house and that these negotiations were broken off by the action of the king's counsellors of the king, who called his majesty's attention to a clause in Queen Victoria's will by virtue of which Osborne house and the immediate estate became "appurtenances of the sovereignty of England." Under this clause it was declared King Edward was estopped from disposing of the royal residence.

It was alleged at the time that among the millionaires negotiating for the purchase of Osborne house was William Waldorf Astor, who, it was said, desired it as a wedding present for his daughter, Miss Pauline Astor.

WEDDED ON DEATHBED.

Ceremony Was Performed by the Bride's Brother, Who Is a Pittsburgh Minister.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—This morning at daybreak J. P. Jensen of Freeburn, Minn., was married to Miss Ruby Simonds, who until a few months ago was a nurse in a Chicago hospital. The wedding solemnized under such peculiar circumstances is one of the most romantic. While she was in Chicago a few years ago she nursed Jensen through almost a fatal illness. Then her own health failed. Accompanied by her father, Col. B. A. Simonds, the noted lumberman of the northwest, she came to Tennessee for the climate. Her strength has slowly failed.

At last in her delirium she divulged that she loved Jensen, and her father telegraphed to him immediately. He loved her also, so it seemed, though on account of differences in their station he had never made a sign. When he received word that she was dying he started at once for Tennessee and arrived here just in time to wed the woman he loved before she died.

The Rev. R. B. Simonds, her brother of Pittsburgh, who had been called to her side to perform the burial service, performed the wedding rites.

EDWARDS FEARS DEATH.

Flees from Chicago, Believing William Bartholin Will Add Another Victim to His List.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—The search for William Bartholin, who is suspected of having murdered his mother and Miss Minnie Mitchell, his sweetheart, was continued today, but no trace of the missing man was found. Oscar Thompson, for 18 years the constant friend of the fugitive's mother, who was arrested yesterday, stoutly maintained his innocence of any knowledge of the murders and pleaded with the authorities to be released. After a long examination, however, Thompson was sent back to his cell, as the police feel confident that he has not told all he knows.

E. C. Hunter and Milton E. R. Edwards, former roomers at the Bartholin house, are being sought by the police.

Late today a special delivery letter arrived from Omaha for R. H. Mitchell, brother of the murdered Minnie Mitchell, from Edwards, who wrote the day after Miss Mitchell's body was identified, stating that he was morally certain that Bartholin had murdered his mother. Edwards in the letter declared that he had fled from Chicago because he feared that he, too, would fall a victim to Bartholin's thirst for blood.

It was learned today that Thompson was in the house the night that Mrs. Bartholin was killed. Thompson has admitted that he was in a room directly across the hall from Mrs. Bartholin's.

M'ELROY SLEEPS WHILE PRISONER MAKES ESCAPE

John Sisco, Wanted in Pittsburgh, Jumps From Train.

CLAIMS DETECTIVE HAD BEEN DRINKING

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Canton, O., Aug. 10.—John H. Sisco, the negro arrested in Chicago for the theft of $250 from Robert Pitcairn of the Pennsylvania railroad in Pittsburgh, escaped from Detective William McElroy shortly after midnight this morning, while en route from Chicago to Pittsburgh.

McElroy and his prisoner occupied the same berth. They boarded the New York limited at the Canal street station in Chicago. Sisco was handcuffed. McElroy placed the colored man next to the window and soon afterward fell asleep.

At Crestline, according to his own statement, Sisco crept cautiously out of the berth and went into the vestibule of the Pullman. There he waited for the train to make a stop. The first one was made at the Wheeling & Lake Erie crossing in this city. As the limited slowed down the negro raised the hatch in the vestibule, crept out on the steps, sprang to the ground and strode into the darkness. The train passed on its way, McElroy sleeping peacefully all unconscious of Sisco's escape.

At noon today the police at the Central station received a telephone message from a brick yard south of the city, saying that a colored man wearing handcuffs had been seen in the vicinity.

Was Easy to Track Him.

Officers Smiley and Roach drove to the yard, but the negro had disappeared.

A rain had fallen a few hours before and the officers succeeded in taking up the trail of the fugitive. They traced the negro's footsteps along a muddy road in the direction of Navarre and when about five miles out of the city they discovered Sisco crouching in the fence corner. He was brought back to the city, where he was locked up.

Tonight Detective Barney McStay arrived in the city and boarded the 10 o'clock train for Pittsburgh with the prisoner. Before leaving Canton Sisco said the reason he escaped was because McElroy had taken a few drinks shortly after leaving Chicago and after they turned in the officer was not long in falling into a sound sleep. "He had me handcuffed, but did not keep me from giving him the slip," said Sisco. "I slept a little myself at first and awoke just as the train was pulling into Crestline.

"McElroy was snoring away for dear life. I crept over him carefully and waited in the aisle of the car to see if he stirred. But he kept on snoring and I knew I was safe so far. I slipped into the vestibule and waited for the next stop. It seemed to me that the train ran along for hours. Finally it began to slow up. I raised the hatch carefully, and, as the train came to a stop, I slipped through the hole and let the hatch down after me.

Blame Capture on Tramps.

"Near the tracks was a brickyard. I went there and found a lot of bums. I asked them to help me get rid of my handcuffs and several of them tried, but could not get them off. I think it was one of these fellows who tipped the thing off to the police. I got 'leery' anyway this morning and struck out across the country. The road was muddy and walking was bad. After I had got about five miles out of town I looked back and saw a buggy coming.

"It dropped over a fence and hid in a field, but the police saw me and it was all off. They loaded me in the buggy and brought me back to town, and here I am. I suppose this time they will take no chances and will get me to Pittsburgh right side up with care."

Sisco was employed as a butler at the Pitcairn residence. He was a trusted servant and, it is said, robbed his employer of $800.

Sisco was well known as a servant among the aristocratic families of Pittsburgh. Recently he became engaged to a girl in South Side and, it is said, he took the money to show her a good time.

SEVEN LIVES LOST IN BIG HOTEL FIRE AT SAN ANGELO, TEX.

Victims Standing on Gallery to Be Rescued When It Falls in Flames.

THREE OTHERS MISSING

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

San Angelo, Tex., Aug. 10.—A fire discovered in the Landon hotel early today by the night clerk destroyed the structure, burning seven persons to a crisp and doing property damage of $75,000. The dead are:

MRS. LANDON, wife of the proprietor.
EDWARD HENDRICK of Waco.
MRS. FOWLER of Houston and her grandson.
MRS. SCHULIMPSKY of Houston and two sons.

All of the bodies recovered are fearfully charred. When the clerk discovered the fire the interior of the dining room was a mass of flame and he could not get through. He rushed up the main stairway, kicking in doors and calling out at the top of his voice.

Most of the guests were aroused by this means and by the discharge of firearms as soon as some of the first guests got out. There were 75 people in the house and all of them got out safely except the seven named, and three others, who have not yet been located, but who are believed to be safe.

The women and children got out on a small balcony and were told to jump into blankets which were being held for them, but they delayed until the gallery fell back into the flames.

In addition to the hotel three stables and half a dozen stores were burned, only the greatest effort preventing the entire business section of the town from being destroyed.

Venezuela Government Loses a General and Sixty Men.

PORT OF SPAIN, TRINIDAD, Aug. 10.—After three days of very severe fighting in the streets of Barcelona, in the Venezuelan state of Bermudez, revolutionists under command of Gen. Penaloza captured the town from the government forces.

The Red D line steamer Caracas, which has arrived at Willemstad from La Guayra, Venezuela, brings the news that Capt. John H. Nickels of the United States training ship Topeka, now at La Guaira, had been held up by revolutionists when returning by train from Caracas, whither he had gone to confer with United States Minister Bowen. The men who stopped the train which carried Capt. Nickels showed him great courtesy, and the train was permitted to proceed immediately.

The position of President Castro at Cua, 25 miles from Caracas, is still complicated and difficult.

DEATH COMES TO M'MILLAN OF MICHIGAN

Although Not an Orator, the Senator Was One of the Leaders.

EXPIRES SUDDENLY AT SUMMER HOME

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—Senator James McMillan of Michigan died this morning at Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass., where he recently built a fine summer cottage. Heart failure following congestion, says the brief dispatch announcing his decease, was the cause of death. The end came as a surprise to his friends, for when the senator left for Massachusetts after adjournment of congress he appeared to be in good health.

Senator McMillan was not only the senior senator from Michigan, but he was practically "mayor" of the District of Columbia. He was just entering upon his fourth term, having been elected last year, so that his term would have expired in 1907. When the Republicans regained control of the senate during Cleveland's second administration, Mr. McMillan became chairman of the senate committee on the District of Columbia. His influence in legislation of interest to the district was almost supreme. He had a quiet, effective way of impressing those about him of his superior business ability, absolute sincerity and straightforward methods.

High in His Party's Councils.

His strong personality was not devoted entirely to looking after the interests of his Michigan constituents and the citizens of the District of Columbia. In the councils of the Republican party but few men occupied a more exalted position. His actions were more eloquent than his public utterances. He was not an orator, but in conference or in committee he probably exercised a stronger personality in national affairs than any other individual member of the senate.

For a number of years he was a member of the Republican "steering" committee. His wise counsel and practical suggestions have helped the Republican party in many instances. Having a wide and successful experience in business, he was able to take a conservative view of a proposition and examine it from more than one standpoint. While ever loyal to the Republican party he could occasionally see something commendable in the opposition.

He figured effectively, if not conspicuously, in the party deliberations during the memorable fight over the establishment of the gold standard and the Dingley tariff policies. His large, handsomely-appointed house in this city was the scene of many of the most important conferences of the leaders of the Republican party of the present generation. His hospitality was bountiful and elegant, so that it was said in senatorial circles that no one was ever known to decline an invitation to Senator McMillan's home.

Some of His Personal Qualities.

He had the art of entertaining down to a fine, but dignified point. He was a good story-teller, a close observer and he had the knack of bringing out all of the good qualities of his guests in a pleasing and appropriate way.

Senator McMillan was a native of Ontario, having been born in Hamilton in 1838, but in early life removed to Michigan and for many years had been prominently identified with the business interests and political life of that state. For a number of terms he was chairman of the Republican state committee. He has been a member of the United States senate since March 4, 1889.

It is expected his remains will be taken to Detroit. The body of his son, Capt. James H. McMillan, who served in the Spanish war, and who died several months ago, rests there. The senator leaves a widow, three sons, W. C., Philip and Frank, all of Detroit, and a daughter. Mrs. McMillan and her daughter accompanied the senator to Manchester after the adjournment of congress.

Played Golf the Day Before.

MANCHESTER, MASS., Aug. 10.—Senator McMillan was in his usual good health up to yesterday afternoon. For several years, however, he had suffered

PENNYPACKER HAS ACCEPTED INDORSEMENT

Republican Nominee for Governor Will Head Citizens Ticket.

LETTER NOW IN HANDS OF QUAY

After Its Perusal by the State Chairman, It Will Be Turned Over to C. S. Crawford.

MACHINE LEADERS MAY GO INTO THE COURTS

Judge Samuel W. Pennypacker of Philadelphia, Republican nominee for governor, has accepted the indorsement of the Citizens party. His letter of acceptance is in the hands of State Chairman M. S. Quay and may be made public today.

There has never been any doubt in the minds of the Citizen leaders about Pennypacker's acceptance. They knew that he would view the proffered aid as did Congressman John Dalzell. It is votes that Pennypacker wants, and he knows that he can get them on the Citizens ticket. One of the best evidences of this was shown in the efforts of machine leaders to prevent him from accepting the indorsement. Every possible lever was pulled by the old organization to induce the nominee and the men who will conduct his campaign to have the candidate turn a deaf ear to the enemies of the machine in this county. Entreaties and threats have failed. Pennypacker knows a good thing when he sees it. He has not been in politics a long time, but appears to be able to distinguish between real and gilded bricks.

Machine Was Surprised.

Machine men were so confident Saturday and yesterday that the wires had been successfully worked that they were openly announcing that Pennypacker would decline the indorsement of the Citizens. While these predictions were being made, the judge was down on the farm writing his letter of acceptance. It was finished Saturday and yesterday Wesley R. Andrews, secretary of the Republican state committee, carried it down to Atlantic City to Chairman Quay, who is in charge of the state campaign.

Charles S. Crawford, who with Dr. Cadwallader Evans, chairman of the Citizen county committee, officially informed Judge Pennypacker of his indorsement, reached Atlantic City yesterday afternoon. It is probable that he will leave the seaside today with the Pennypacker letter in his possession. It may be that the acceptance will be made public in the east or Mr. Crawford will bring it back to Pittsburgh, present it to the committee and then give it publicity. Dr. Evans is at Allenhurst, N. J. He spent a night at the home of Judge Pennypacker and when he left the gubernatorial candidate he knew that the nomination would be accepted. He did not have a conference with Senator Quay.

Committee May Not Meet.

It is probable that a meeting of the Republican state committee to consider the indorsement of Pennypacker will not be called. This method of disposing of the proposition of the Citizens had its birth in the minds of machine leaders. They pointed out to Quay that he could leave the question to the committee and it could adopt a resolution prohibiting a state candidate from accepting nominations from another party. These diplomats evidently neglected to figure on the possibility of Pennypacker having a mind of his own. His acceptance of the indorsement has put an end to their plan and leaves no recourse but the courts. As late as Saturday one of the machine leaders was of the opinion that the state committee would agree to tie the hands of Pennypacker.

It is questionable whether the old organization will attempt to have the courts declare the Citizens indorsement of Pennypacker illegal. There has been some talk of litigation, but machine men have been known to advise against it. They believe that such action would be impolitic, resulting in an increased vote for the Citizens. The Dauphin courts have ruled both ways on the question, but the latest decision sustained an indorsement similar to the one in this case.

The Browns Will Accept.

The Citizens party has not formally notified William M. Brown and Isaac B. Brown, Republican nominees for lieutenant governor and secretary of internal affairs, of their indorsement. This will be done in a few days. Since Pennypacker, who heads the ticket, has accepted, it follows that the Browns will do likewise.

It is probable that the organization will now have the machine Democrats put a ticket in the field with Pattison and Guthrie at the head and the machine county ticket for a tail. The plans for such a scheme have all been laid, even though a number of the organization candidates have denied that any action of the kind has been contemplated. The plan would not bring much additional strength to the organization county ticket as the machine Democrats would not vote for the Citizens candidate in any event, and those who are anxious to see a change in the county government would not be lured away from the Citizens movement.

Dr. McKelvey to Remain.

The Rev. Dr. T. C. McKelvey, pastor of the Thirteenth United Presbyterian church, Beltzhoover and Washington avenues, Allentown, gladdened the hearts of his flock yesterday morning when he announced he had declined a call from a large church in Indianola, Ia. The call was received by Dr. McKelvey July 1, and as he had never been to the town or seen its people before, he paid a visit to the field.

Probable Murder at Allentown.

ALLENTOWN, PA., Aug. 10.—Councilman Condy McFadden early today found John Stroh, a silk worker aged 61, lying on his doorstep suffering from stab wounds in the forehead and the right thigh. Stroh was unconscious and remains in that condition. The surgeons say he cannot recover.

LEAGUE PROBES CHARGE AGAINST ITS PRESIDENT

Disappointed Candidates Present an Impeachment Resolution.

A COMMITTEE OF FIVE

President William Boate of United Labor League Is Charged With Not Trying to Have Men Indorsed by League Put on Citizens Ticket.

President William Boate of the United Labor league of Western Pennsylvania is to be tried by a committee of five of that body on an impeachment charge, preferred by George J. Churchill of the street railway employes, that he betrayed the trust of his office in failing to have Churchill and William Hamilton indorsed by the Citizens party for the state legislature. Discussion of the matter precipitated a spirited session of the league, and it was nearly midnight before the meeting closed.

The charges preferred by Churchill are that Boate as a member, president, and member of the legislative committee of the league betrayed the trust of his constituents in not trying to secure nominations for Churchill and Hamilton. The charges were referred to a committee of five, of which George Newcomb of the Amalgamated Engineers, is chairman, for investigation. This committee will probably meet on Friday night.

Along with the charges, there was a resolution that President Boate be retired from his office during an investigation. This resolution was submitted to a vote and had only a handful of supporters, not more than three, it is said. President Boate said after the meeting:

Wants Full Investigation.

"Now that this matter has been brought up in the league in this way I am anxious that it be sifted to the bottom. All that I ask is that a full and complete investigation be made. There is not a doubt in my mind as to the result. Every member of the legislative committee knows the effort that we made to have these men indorsed by the Citizens party, but there were circumstances in the districts which they sought to represent that thwarted our purpose. We did the best we could, but could not dictate."

Churchill sought to be a candidate for assemblyman from the Sixth district and Hamilton from the Second. The charges against the president of the league were preferred by Churchill. As soon as the matter was broached, Boate retired from the chair in favor of Vice President John Fernot, master workman of the Pittsburgh district organization of the Knights of Labor, and the league president took part in the discussion, in which considerable ill-feeling was engendered.

Violations of Law Alleged.

The league heard a partial report of a special committee appointed to investigate reports that prisoners at the county workhouse are being hired to employers outside the institution.

It was reported that officers of the institution admitted that this was done, one saying that the workhouse received $1 a day for the men, and another said it was 50 cents. The league continued the committee and instructed it to consult with an attorney, probably William J. Brennen, to determine if a state law is being violated, and if not to proceed to secure an enactment that will make the practice unlawful.

A report was expected from the broommakers on the charges that the Muehlbronner prison labor law is being violated at the Western penitentiary, but the broommakers' delegate was not present. The secretary of the league was instructed to address Attorney General John P. Elkin and request action. A previous communication to the attorney general is said to have met with a reply that he would look into the matter and there the thing has been dropped by the attorney general.

GREAT DAMAGE DONE BY STORM IN KANSAS CITY

Wind Blows Over 50 Miles an Hour and Rain Comes in Sheets.

MANY HOUSES UNROOFED

Plate Glass Windows Broken and Signs Fall Into Streets—Thousands of Sparrows Drowned Because of Suddenness of Diluge.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 10.—A windstorm that broke early today and raged for half an hour, accompanied by lightning and rain, is said to have been the severest in 15 years. In the business streets numerous plate glass fronts were broken, signs and awnings torn down and rickety structures demolished. In the residence districts several thousand trees were overthrown and numerous windows were smashed.

The local weather bureau reports that the wind blew at the rate of 52 miles an hour for seven minutes, and .5 of an inch of rain fell in 15 minutes. The fire department has been busy all day repairing damages, and the fire chief estimates the loss at $100,000.

A number of large buildings in the business section was unroofed and their contents damaged by the downpour of rain.

A dead wall of a building which was destroyed by fire one year ago, blew over and crushed a house occupied by two negro women, Jessie and Emma Parker. Jessie Parker escaped with slight injuries, but her sister was pinioned down by the debris and was more seriously, but not fatally injured. Several persons were badly cut by falling glass. A boy picked up a live wire at Thirty-first street and Troost avenue and was severely shocked. The electric company has shut down all of its high tension engines because so many wires are down.

The telephone company suffered heavy loss. Many poles are down and hundreds of trees fell across the wires, breaking them down. Two thousand telephones are out of order and the service is bad all over the city.

A feature of the storm was the drowning of thousands of sparrows. The rain came so suddenly that they were unable to find places of shelter after having been blown from their roosts.

In Kansas City, Kas., more than 200 dwellings and other buildings were completely or partially unroofed, electric light and telephone wires were blown down, huge chimneys toppled over, hundreds of trees were uprooted and the business streets are strewn with signs and awnings. Among the buildings unroofed were the new Masonic Temple, a high school building and another school building at Seventh street and Quindaro boulevard. The steeple of the Seventh Street Methodist church was blown down.

Delayed the Train.

Trains from the Fairmont & Morgantown branch of the Baltimore & Ohio were late in arriving in Pittsburgh last night, owing to a mishap near Morgantown. Three miles north of Morgantown yesterday afternoon the axle of engine No. 1247, pulling a freight train, broke and the track was blocked for several hours. Train No. 49 from the south, due here at 7:50, did not arrive until a few minutes before midnight.

BURGESS HORNER ON THE WARPATH

WILL COLLECT EXTRA FEE FROM CERTAIN OUTSIDE DEALERS.

Pittsburgh Merchants, Whose Drivers Canvass for Orders and Collect On Delivery Are Affected—Beer Men Placed in Peculiar Predicament.

Burgess Horner is the man of the hour in Wilkinsburg. Several ideas that the chief officer of that borough has put into practice have kept him in hot water with many of the citizens, but this time the local business men of Wilkinsburg smile approval, no matter what the purchasers of meats, ice and other commodities may be thinking.

The burgess has construed the Wilkinsburg license ordinance, and as a result, there is indignation among Pittsburgh merchants who sell goods there. Suits have been brought to enforce the ordinance and fines will be inflicted on those who, according to the burgess' interpretation of the borough law, refuse to pay a license. The burgess is waging war against all dealers in merchandise who dispose of wares by house-to-house sales without taking out a regular license, in addition to the vehicle license. The burgess interprets the license ordinance to mean that outside dealers in milk, ice, beer, meat, bread and other staves of life must pay $6 50 for a one-horse wagon and $8 for a two-horse wagon.

A. Kiskadden, a driver for a Pittsburgh bakery, was held last week in $50 bail pending a hearing. He refused to pay $8 for a license when told to do so by the burgess, and now she says that if the burgess fines him the penalty provided in the ordinance he will take an appeal to court. Kiskadden says the fact that he delivers bread to customers does not constitute peddling. Other drivers will be taken before the burgess today if they fail to take out a license.

A half-dozen "foreign" ice companies whose factories are not in Wilkinsburg have customers in the borough. Those that sell ice from door to door may pay and some of them have given up the money, but those who sell to customers on orders will defy the burgess.

Not everybody is obstreperous. The beer dealers are passing in the cash at a lively rate.

Some Ticklish Questions.

Some of the Wilkinsburg business men who criticised Horner for deposing the ordinance officer, John Thompson, because the receipts from licenses were not large enough, are now having nothing to say. The ordinance is not construed to mean that grocers and other merchants who deliver to regular customers shall pay the tax, but any of these who solicit orders generally and on delivering collect the money, come under the provisions of the ordinance.

What shall be done with the beer dealers is the question. Wilkinsburg is a local option town. The wholesalers maintain that if they deliver orders they may not be required to pay the license any more than the grocers. But the burgess say they must pay. Does that mean, Wilkinsburg asks, that beer may be sold from house to house? If it does mean that, they assert, then the local option law is broken, and the dealers, although they may have a license, can be arrested and fined.

RIVER VICTIMS BURIED.

Double Funeral of Allegheny Women Attracted Large Crowd.

The funerals of Mrs. Margaret Miller and Miss Bridgete Madden, the Allegheny women who were drowned in the Ohio river Thursday evening by being run down by the towboat Little Fred, occurred yesterday, the interment being in Calvary cemetery.

The funeral attracted great interest and was attended by a large number of friends and acquaintances of the two young women.

The hearses which bore the bodies to their last resting place were white, as were the coffins. They led the funeral procession side by side from the homes of the decedents to the cemetery. It is estimated that over 3,000 persons witnessed the obsequies.

AUGUSTINIANS' LEADER COMING TO THE STATES

He Tells the Other Side of the Friar Story in the Philippines.

GOVERNMENT CRITICISED

Declares Friars Are Hated by Those Filipinos Who Hate Law—Natives Can't Be Trusted to Govern Themselves.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Rome, Aug. 10.—Thomas Rodriguez, general of the Augustigians and supreme head of the whole order, which is very powerful at Rome, will leave here tomorrow for Naples, where he will board a steamship next Wednesday for New York.

"In the case of the Philippine friars nothing definite can be done," said Father Rodriguez, "while negotiations are still pending between the holy see and the United States. Whoever is impartial must admit it to be strange, that while Washington cannot or will not expel the friars from the Philippine archipelago, it should request this to be done by the vatican, whose principal duty and interest is to protect the friars, both materially and morally.

"The truth is that the friars are not hated by a majority of the Filipinos, but only by that faction which wished to get rid of them to be left without curb or law.

"This I verified myself when, in 1896, I visited the islands from end to end, and I have had confirmation of this statement in recent reports, which say that friars have been called again to parishes outside of Manila which they left after the revolution of 1898, this being partly due to their excellent work in the present cholera scourge. The result is that the Augustinians now again occupy many places outside of Manila.

"They would easily be able to return to all the abandoned interior districts where they formerly administered religion to 2,500,000 Filipinos if the civil government of the islands showed more energy in repressing the rebellious elements, which is against the Americans not less than against the friars.

"The experience will convince Washington of the necessity of having the Philippines under strict rule, as the natives are entirely lacking in the national qualities or political education to govern themselves. If autonomy is granted them, one year will be sufficient to reduce the islands to anarchy, the most powerful Filipinos becoming the heads of so many tribes or factions."

BURGLARS LEAVE SHOES.

Woman's Screams Bring Help, But the Robbers Break Away.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—Shortly before 1 o'clock this morning two burglars were discovered in a Pacific avenue cottage occupied by Mrs. E. Gorman, a wealthy visitor. They had gained entrance to her bed chamber through a window and had collected jewelry and apparel approximating $10,000 in value, when a noise made by one of them stumbling aroused Mr. Gorman. She screamed for help. One of the burglars pointed a revolver at her head and threatened to shoot her if she did not keep quiet. Mrs. Gorman continued calling for help, and her cries awakened her two sons, who were sleeping in another room. They grappled with the burglars, but the outlaws broke away, leaving their shoes, which are being used by detectives as a clew.

CHINESE PRINCE VISITS THE TOMB OF GEN. GRANT

Pays Feeling Tribute to Great Soldier Who Was Friend of Orient.

DINNER AT CONSULATE

Today's Program Includes Trip to Oyster Bay—Departure from New York Delayed to Allow Visit to Business Section of City.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Aug. 10.—Prince Tsia Chen of China spent a busy Sunday. The program included an inspection of the fire apparatus of the New York department, a drive through Central park, a visit to the tomb of Gen. Grant, where he placed a wreath in memory of the great general, and a dinner at the Chinese consulate.

At the tomb the prince was escorted into the crypt, and while the party stood with bowed heads Col. Middleton, the custodian, placed a handsome floral wreath, a token of respect from the prince, upon the casket. The wreath was made of American Beauty and white roses and laurel leaves. Some one remarked to the prince that the wreath was very beautiful.

"Nothing is too beautiful for the illustrious general of the American army," replied the prince, and then he added:

"Gen. Grant was very fond of the Chinese people, and they all loved him when he lived, and all respect his memory."

Before leaving the tomb Prince Chen said:

"This is the third tomb of a great personage I have visited during my present trip. In France I paid homage to the memory of the great Napoleon and in England I visited the resting place of Queen Victoria."

The dinner party at the Chinese consulate was composed of some 30 persons, including Minister Wu, the host; Prince Chen, Herbert H. D. Peirce, third assistant secretary of state; Mayor's Secretary Reynolds, Sir Chen-Tung Liang Cheng, the new minister; Mr. Wang Kai Kan, and Mr. Ou, Minister Wu's first secretary.

Only one part of tomorrow's program is certain and that is Prince Chen's visit to President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay. The prince will convey to President Roosevelt the best wishes of the Chinese emperor and his hope for a continuation of the friendly feeling that has existed between the two countries.

It had been planned that the party should leave New York tomorrow night, but as the prince expressed a desire to visit the business section of the city, the departure will not be made until Tuesday night. The prince will go on a special train on the New York Central to Niagara Falls. He expects to sail from Vancouver on August 18.

ALPINE DISASTER SEEN BY TELESCOPE

Two Travelers Perish, but Their Guide, Who Survives, Tells Thrilling Story.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHAMOUNIX, FRANCE, Aug. 10.—The two residents of Paris who recently perished from exposure on Mont Blanc and whose guides were reported to have been killed while descending the mountain in search of assistance were named Staehling and Mandit. The bodies of these men, together with that of the guide, Culet, have been brought here.

Blanc, who was supposed to have been killed, was found alive at the bottom of a crevasse. The fall of the guides into the crevasse was witnessed by telescopes from here and led to the supposition that both men had been killed.

Blanc had a marvelous escape. He had a sheer fall of about 111 feet, but was almost uninjured, although he suffered from the effects of six hours' exposure on the ice. Couliet was killed instantly.

In an interview Blanc said: "Both the Frenchmen were between 20 and 30 years old, but they were experienced Alpine climbers. They were self-willed and not inclined to follow the advice of the guides. On reaching the Petit plateau a blinding snowstorm began. I counseled a return, but the Parisians persisted that they could easily reach the refuge of the Vallot observatory. The storm increased in violence and compelled us to burrow in the snow for protection. We stayed thus, all four huddled together, for 30 hours and shared equally the last drops of brandy. At 2 o'clock in the morning Staehling expired of exhaustion, and 10 minutes later Mandit also breathed his last. He had just strength enough to whisper the word 'Adieu.'

"It was 4 o'clock in the morning before the storm abated. Culiet and I tried to find our way down to the Grands Mulets. Our hands and feet were frostbitten. We met persons ascending who gave us cognac and coffee. Culiet was to ill to speak."

When asked how they had rushed blindly into the crevasse Neophyte, which they could have avoided, Blanc replied: "We were so exhausted and overcome with the hardships of our terrible experiences that we were really madmen for the time being. We were beset with one idea, to fly the shortest way from what had happened."

ELKINS SAYS HE WILL GO ON STUMP

WOULD NOT TALK ABOUT HIS SENATORIAL ASPIRATIONS.

Declined to Discuss Judge Pennypacker's Indorsement—Will Call at Republican Headquarters and Expects to Meet Senator Quay Today.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Aug. 10.—Attorney General Elkin will take the stump for the Republican state ticket when the campaign opens. He made this announcement at the Hotel Walton tonight. Mr. Elkin had just returned from a 10-day fishing trip on Lake Muskoka in Canada.

"I don't know anything about the political situation," he replied to a query. "I have been away nearly two weeks and I have not heard anything since I arrived in Pennsylvania."

"Are you a candidate for United States senator?" he was asked.

"That is a matter I don't want to talk about," he answered.

"Are you going to make any speeches this fall?"

"Yes, I expect to make several for the state ticket during the campaign, but I have not arranged my itinerary yet."

The attorney general said he had heard of Judge Pennypacker's nomination by the Citizens party of Pittsburgh. When asked what he thought of it he replied, laconically, "I don't think."

"I am going to my home in Indiana county tomorrow," he said, "but before leaving the city I may call at the Republican state headquarters. If Senator Quay is there, and I understand he is expected, I shall probably meet him."

DEATH COMES TO SENATOR M'MILLAN

from a heart affection, principally a weakness brought on by overwork, and had guarded himself against it.

He was at the Essex County club yesterday afternoon, and while playing golf was obliged to pass over a small hill, which so affected his breathing that he was obliged to stop, and, being overcome by slight faintness, he sent for a stimulant, which revived him and the attack passed away. He went home without finishing the game, and at dinner time was very jovial and light-hearted.

He remained up quite late in the evening, talking and joking with the family, but at midnight suffered a severe ill turn, being pressed for breath and experiencing considerable pain. A physician was called who administered the usual heart tonics, which had the desired effect and the patient rested comfortably until 3 o'clock, when another attack came on, more severe than the first. The physician applied by hypodermic injections the most powerful heart stimulants known to medical science, but the drugs had no effect and the senator continued to sink until he lost consciousness, ten minutes before his death.

BRUSH FOR PRESIDENT.

Rumor from Philadelphia That Ex-Cincinnati Magnate Is After Head of the National League.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—(Special.)—It is not at all improbable that Brush is to be elected president of the National league, in which case his retirement from active personal interest in one of the clubs of the league would be necessary.

With Brush president of the league John I. Rogers would be likely to sell out his interest in the Phillies at a more moderate figure than he has heretofore asked.

Reach has for a number of years been ready to buy or sell, but heretofore the two owners have never been able to get together on figures.

That open rupture between Reach and Rogers was the forerunner of a separation and the fact that the minor share holders in the Philadelphia Baseball club, limited, will have a chance under the law to say something this fall will have some effect.

Mr. Grafly says he will try to find out why no dividends have been declared in all the years in which the Phillies is known to have made money.

Sea Serpent of the Old-Fashioned Sort Seen by a Ship Pilot.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(Special.)—Capt. Alexander Banta, an old Hell Gate pilot, has never placed much confidence in sea serpent stories, but he had an experience today which has caused him to change his opinion. He now believes some monster has its haunts off City Island.

Capt. Banta's encounter with the reptile occurred before daylight. He was off City Island on his way to meet an incoming vessel and take her through Hell Gate and was resting on his oars, when a big black creature, which, he says, was larger than a whale, came up under his boat and struck it with such force that it was raised out of the water and nearly capsized. The strange monster had big eyes, which gleamed like dark lanterns, and the noise made by it as it plowed through the water resembled that of a big steamer turning about in midstream.

BURNING A MAN IN EFFIGY WAS COSTLY TRICK

Twenty-two Mt. Washington Residents Fined for Demonstration.

WILLIAMS HAS REVENGE

The Citizens Who Caused Him so Much Trouble About an Old Well, and Celebrated When It Was Filled Up, Get Bumped.

There was an unusual hearing yesterday morning at No. 7 police station on the South Side, when 22 persons were fined by Magistrate David J. McGarey for burning John Williams of No. 80 Norton street, Mt. Washington, in effigy. It is probably the first case in the history of this section that persons were prosecuted and fined for giving vent to their displeasure in burning in effigy a neighbor. It cost the 22 persons tried just $184 80 for their evening's sport.

The demonstration and burning of Williams, who is a quiet business man, with a tile-setting establishment in Carson street, South Side, occurred last Friday night in front of his home in Norton avenue. The trouble with his neighbors was caused by an old well, which is located partly on his property and partly in Norton avenue. It is said to have been more or less of a menace to pedestrians at all times, and some time ago the neighbors of Williams demanded that he have it filled up. Williams refused, as the well is not wholly located on his property, and there has been considerable contention about the matter since.

Williams built a fence about his lot a short time ago, leaving the well on the outside. The fuss was then renewed because the hole was left entirely outside the fence. Williams then asked Supt. John Battles of the bureau of highways and sewers to fill it in, which was done. This was provocation enough for the neighbors to start something, and they tried to have the "white wings" stop work, because they said Williams should pay to have the work done.

Friday night a crowd of about 200 assembled in front of Williams' house and began to hoot and throw mud at the house, and his family was terrorized. The crowd then swung an effigy from a telegraph pole, with a rope around its neck and set fire to it.

Those who paid fines amounting to $8 40 each were John Gust, Elmer Gudwood, Dick Ward, and May Russell of Dilworth street, Eddie Dotts, Charles Dotts, Agustie Brosey, Mrs. Free, Mark Foley, Mrs. Annie Rice, Mrs. Hunter, Alice Hunter, Susie Griffin, Mary Lee, Rudolph Myers, Hannah Carroll, Dossie Hardiman, Mrs. Hardiman, Charles Hardiman of Norton avenue; Frank Parks and Joseph Cunningham of Southern avenue, and William Coolly of Merrimac street.

WHAT CUBANS CAN REMEMBER UNCLE SAM BY

Bureau of Insular Affairs Enumerates What Was Accomplished.

FOUR YEARS' GOOD WORK

Regeneration Has Touched Every Branch of Public Work and Service—Nation and Cities On Sound Financial Basis.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—The bureau of insular affairs of the war department has prepared a statement showing what the United States accomplished during the occupation of Cuba from the time the military government was established, July 18, 1898, until May 19, 1902.

At the close of hostilities in Cuba it is said the country was in a state of devastation and ruin, both as to its political organization and as to its industrial condition. Without precedent to guide, and many of them without previous experience in state affairs, the officers of the United States army at once undertook to set up a form of government which would provide sufficient revenues for the immediate needs and which might be developed into a stable and lasting system.

Sixteen custom houses were established, postoffices were opened throughout the island and native postmasters were appointed. More than 300 new postoffices were established. The number of schoolhouses provided nearly equal those in this country for a corresponding area.

Telegraphs, Roads and Streets.

There was constructed a telegraph line connecting with the principal cities throughout the island and maintained by the United States signal corps. Public roads were opened throughout the island, which, with the construction and repair of bridges, has been of invaluable benefit to the inhabitants. As a sanitary measure the streets of many of the cities were paved and extensive systems of sewerage constructed.

The harbors of the island were greatly improved; an admirable system of buoys and beacons were established, and government warehouses and docks were repaired and constructed.

The total revenues from all sources collected during the occupation was $57,-520,000, and the expenditures therefrom, $53,870,000, the remainder having been turned over to the republic of Cuba at the time of withdrawal of the United States authority, May 19, 1902. In the fiscal year 1899 more than $1,000,000 was contributed to defray municipal deficits, and thereafter the schools, police and municipal hospitals and charities were maintained almost entirely at the expense of the insular government. This condition has been very largely overcome, and the majority of the municipalities are now self-sustaining.

Contagious Diseases Checked.

The marine quarantine conducted by the United States marine hospital service has been effective in preventing the spread of contagious diseases, and this service has greatly aided the other officers in their efforts to establish healthful conditions.

All of the branches of government were organized and had been gradually put into the hands of native officers who had been associated in the respective departments with American administrators whereby opportunity was given for a full understanding of methods of government.

PREPARING FOR PARADE.

Building Trades Unions Complete Their Organization for Labor Day.

Delegates from all the organized building trades of this vicinity yesterday organized for their participation in the Labor Day demonstration at a meeting in Painters hall, No. 416 Wood street.

Charles Winslow of the carpenters was elected chairman, and John Ferrau, secretary of the Labor Day executive committee, secretary. L. L. Pritchard, of the sheet metal workers, was elected division marshal for the Labor Day parade; George Miller, of the stonecutters, adjutant general, and W. F. McCoy of the structural iron workers, chief of staff. The building trades will form the second division in the big parade. The different trades will form the division in the following order:

Slate and tile roofers, hodcarriers, lathers, stonemasons, marble cutters and setters, metal weather strip workers, Amalgamated Society of Carpenters, hoisting engineers, plasterers, painters, encaustic and mosaic tile layers, structural iron workers, sheeet metal workers, Brotherhood of Carpenters, bricklayers, pipe coverers, marble mosaic workers, electrical workers, stonecutters, hardwood floor layers, ornamental iron workers, cement workers, gas and electric fixture fitters, steamfitters, plumbers and elevator constructors.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—(Copyright Cable.)—The duchess of Marlborough will sail for New York on Wednesday on the Kronprinz Wilhelm. She had arranged to cross in July, but the postponement of the coronation prevented her. She will go to Newport to remain there until the end of the season.

Other passengers by the Kronprinz Wilhelm are Mr. and Mrs. George Westinghouse and Frederick W. Holls.

TRENTON IN DARKNESS.

Heavy Wind Unroofs Houses and Plays Havoc With Wires.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 10.—About a score of buildings were unroofed and otherwise damaged by a terrific storm that visited Trenton about 5 o'clock.

The properties injured were in the center of the city and the electric light and trolley wires at that point were torn down, suspending the trolley service and causing a portion of the city to be in darkness. Fortunately no one was injured.

AWAKENED TO LEARN HE SLEW HIS COMRADE

Drunken Quarrel Near Washington, Pa., in Which One Man Kills His Best Friend.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, Pa., Aug. 10.—Joseph Gillespie, aged 30, was killed this evening at 8 o'clock by John Amei. The men are employed by the Shaw Coal Company at Midway and live in a little shanty together. It is thought they had been drinking and late this afternoon fell to quarreling. Amei took a hatchet and struck Gillespie over the head, beating his brains out.

A report of the fight reached the constable of Midway and he went to the shanty, where a terrible sight confronted him. Gillespie was found lying in a pool of his own blood, dead, with his head beaten into a shapeless mass. Amei was also lying on the floor, hopelessly drunk. He was finally aroused enough to tell that they had been fighting, and admitted that he had killed his companion in the struggle.

He then relapsed into a drunken stupor. He was brought to jail at Washington. Coroner J. J. Fitzpatrick was notified and will hold an inquest in the morning. The men are both single and had been the best of friends, working daily in the mines and keeping house for themselves.

DR. CARR SUCCEEDS GEORGE LINDERMAN

WILSON APPOINTS HIM SUPERINTENDENT AT MARSHALSEA.

He Has Been a Resident Physician at the Poor Farm for a Number of Years Past—Formerly Lived in the Twelfth Ward of This City.

Dr. John D. Carr has been appointed superintendent of Marshalsea. He succeeds George Linderman and has taken charge.

The superintendency of the poor farm was held for years by Mr. Linderman. Owing to ill health he resigned his position on May 1. Since that time Director George W. Wilson of the department of charities has been attending to the duties performed by Mr. Linderman, and in the meantime has been looking for a superintendent.

The place is said to have been offered to a number of men, but none of them were willing to accept. The length of the term of office is very much in doubt, owing to the disturbed political conditions in Pittsburgh. The appointee of the present director might be asked for his resignation next April, in the event of a change in the city administration.

Dr. Carr has been one of the resident physicians at Marshalsea for over four years. Previous to that he practiced medicine for a time in the Twelfth ward of the city. He came to Pittsburgh from Uniontown. Dr. Carr is 35 years old and unmarried. The position pays about $2,000 per annum.

WANTED IN YOUNGSTOWN, ARRESTED IN NEW YORK

Morris Strous, Alias Jake Underhill, Accused of Participating in Big Jewelry Swindle.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 10.—Morris Strous, alias Jake Underhill, was arrested at New York today, charged with a swindle practiced in this city. He with his agent, operating under the name of Jos. Granckopf, swindled a number of jewelry houses out of thousands of dollars from here. Their victims were Bent, Lindenberg & Co. of Cincinnati, and the North American Watch Company of Mansfield, Ohio. Other firms lost heavily.

Underhill, through his agents, rented a store here and sent out letters to different concerns, asking for jewelry on credit, which was shipped to them. The goods were at once shipped to New York. The Cincinnati firm became suspicious. Henry Harris, agent of Underhill, was found here and arrested. Harris had been going under the name of Granckopf, but claimed he was a dupe. He swore out a warrant for Underhill and he was released on a bond.

Underhill is said to have operated similarly in Hartford, Conn., and other places in the east.

Miowera Has Breakdown.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 10.—The Miowera reached port today, three days late from Australia, having broken down as a result of trouble with her condensers after leaving Suva. Among her passengers was Lord Hopetoun, late governor general of Australia, who resigned because he could not carry on the establishments required by Australians on the $50,-000 a year paid him.

News of the Rivers.

It is thought that the Keystone State will have no difficulty in reaching Pittsburgh this morning on the present stage of water in the Ohio river.

The Ben Hur and Kanawha are reported on good time, and no doubt will be at the Monongahela wharf early this morning.

The Kanawha does not depart for Charleston on the Kanawha river until tomorrow.

Capt. J. W. Fell, assistant traffic manager of the Louisville and Portland canal, left on a ten days' outing.

The big United States snagboat E. A. Woodruff, Capt. Christian, after removing a wreck at the head of the Louisville falls, left for Cairo to remove snags and other obstructions. Wade Anderson, Jr., went as pilot on her. She removed nine snags on the way down, and would have done other work had the river been lower.

The little steamer Shawnee, Capt. John Golden's recent purchase, is going south today on an unlimited trip to tow his storeboat City of Mount Vernon, loaded with a big stock of general wares and a large "flying dutchman," the latter to be planted ashore at various points en route for the youngsters.

Capt. E. J. Howard has just fitted up a contrivance for carrying the waste from the planing and bandsaw mill to the furnaces in his new electric power house at the shipyard. It is a 22-inch zinc tube, 300 feet long and high up on stilts, and through this the shavings and sawdust are blown by a buzzing machine immediately into the furnaces, thereby creating every speck of the mill offal and lessening fuel expenses.

OPERA HOUSE BLOCK ON FIRE

BLAZE COSTS ALTOONA MERCHANTS MORE THAN $50,000.

For Two Hours Firemen Fight Flames, but See Only Smoke—Dry Goods and Clothing Companies Heaviest Lossers. Building Little Damaged.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

ALTOONA, PA., Aug. 10.—The Opera House block, one of the largest buildings here, which was occupied by the Imperial Drygoods Company, the One Price Clothing Company and the Eleventh Avenue opera house, was badly damaged by fire, which was discovered at 8:45 o'clock this morning and the loss will aggregate close to $55,000.

The fire started in the basement and was of mysterious origin. At first there was nothing to be seen but smoke. The firemen worked two hours before they saw the blaze. The smoke was so thick that they were obliged to break all the doors and windows on the first floor, trying to locate the flames. The basement and first floor were flooded.

It was a five-hours' battle, the entire department being out.

The drygoods company carried about $65,000 stock and its damage is estimated at over $40,000. The building escaped with a $2,000 loss, the fire fortunately not being near any of the walls.

The clothing company's stock of $25,000 was damaged to the extent of $10,000. All the loss is covered by insurance.

TROOPS IN DOWNPOUR AT SHENANDOAH CAMP

Twelfth Regiment Claims to Have Star Rifle Team of State Guard—Peace Reigns.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

SHENANDOAH, PA., Aug. 10.—Heavy rains fell here today, making things disagreeable for the troops in camp on the hill outside of Shenandoah. Despite the inclement weather, however, there were a large number of visitors in camp from the surrounding towns.

The men were permitted to continue target practice today. Much interest was shown by the visitors. Officers say the record made by the Twelfth regiment team is the best ever made by a rifle team of the Pennsylvania national guard. The general average was 87. The team will go to the Mount Gretna tournament August 19.

It was estimated today that the total cost to the state for transportation and maintaining the troops for the first 10 days they have been in the field is $35,-000. This includes the pay of officers and men and cost of ammunition.

WILKESBARRE, PA., Aug. 10.—The fourteenth week of the anthracite miners' strike begins tomorrow. President Mitchell says the strikers are in good shape. Contributions to the relief fund are coming in from many quarters now, and the dissatisfaction which was first evinced over the distribution has now disappeared and the strikers have settled down to what they believe is going to be a much longer siege than was first anticipated.

A $20,000 contribution from the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen is expected within the next 10 days. It is said 400 lodges will contribute $50 each. Other railway brotherhoods are expected to follow suit.

WAS CURED OF TETANUS.

Allegheny Hospital Authorities Elated Over Successful Case.

Joseph Millock, aged 19 years, of No. 1516 East Ohio street, Allegheny, who has been at the Allegheny General hospital since July 10, suffering with tetanus, has recovered and will be discharged from the hospital this week. Millock had his right leg injured about July 10 by the explosion of a railroad torpedo some boys had placed on a street car track near his home.

When taken to the hospital his jaws were set, he was bent backwards, forming almost a semi-circle, and he was nearly constantly in convulsions. He was at once placed under the regular tetanus treatment. The hospital authorities are much elated over his recovery, as the case was far advanced when he was taken to the hospital for treatment.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY CAUSED BY FEAR OF GOING INSANE

Despondent Man Decides It Best to Take Aged Wife With Him.

PATHETIC LETTER TO SON

Doctor Told Him His Mentality Was Gradually Growing Weaker and He Desired to Save His Family from Suffering.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Utica, Mich., Aug. 10.—S. E. Sower, a well-to-do farmer who has been living in this village for several months, last night killed his wife with an axe as she lay in bed, and then hung himself in the barn. Despondency over the fear that he was becoming insane and grief over the death of his only daughter 10 years ago impelled him to commit the crimes.

Two weeks ago Sower consulted a local physician as to his mental condition and was told that his mentality was gradually growing weaker. In a remarkable letter that was found addressed to his son, Sower said:

"Dear Ellis: This could not be any other way. I knew weeks ago that it must be insanity or suicide for me, and I decided that insanity would be worse for all of us than suicide. But I could not possibly bring myself to feel that it would be otherwise than cowardly to leave mamma to the awful suffering and death that either insanity or suicide would mean for her. So I decided it would be best for all, and especially for her, to take her with me.

"What can I say to you that will in any way help you to bear this awful blow? Nothing. * * * No one is to blame for this. My wife has been an affectionate, patient and self-sacrificing woman and my son a most dutiful boy. I could not explain so I would be understood, what has led up to this, but Nannie's death hastened it and if I should write page upon page I would not be understood. I have no fear whatever for the future, as I have done the very best I could with the light and strength I have had through life. No just God would punish me for what I could not help. Good by all."

DISOBEYED ORDERS.

For Religious Reasons a Colonel Refuses to Close Schools and Will Be Court-Martialed.

VANNES, FRANCE, Aug. 10.—The prefect of the department of Morbhan asked that a detachment of cavalry be sent to assist the authorities to close the unauthorized congregationist schools at Ploermel.

Lieut.-Col. St. Remy was ordered to Ploermel with a part of his regiment. St. Remy refused to obey, declaring his religious sentiments forbade him to cooperate in closing congregationist establishments. Gen. Andre, the war minister, has ordered Col. St. Remy to be confined in the fortress of Belle Isle and to be court-martialed for insubordination.

HOSTILE MORO PARTY.

Americans May Have to Fight It Before Peace Is Assured.

MANILA, Aug. 10.—Gen. Sumner, commanding the American forces on the island of Mindanao, has sent a dispatch to Gen. Chaffee, saying there are two Moro parties at Bacolod, Mindanao, one peaceful and one hostile.

Capt. John J. Pershing of the Fifteenth cavalry, who is in command of the American forces at Lake Lanao, Mindanao, has expressed his doubt of the success of the efforts now being made by the Americans to placate the hostile Moros. The situation in the island is not regarded as serious.

TEN PAGES.

Proper Acceptance.

It is reported on seeming good authority that Judge Pennypacker will not only not refuse the nomination tendered by the Citizens party, but will accept formally. That is entirely proper. Meantime, however, Gov. Stone is considering plans, so the dispatches from Harrisburg say, to prevent the Republican ticket from obtaining the advantage of Citizens party votes. There is no intimation of how the governor proposes to do this, nor is there any suggestion of how he can if the papers filed are regular.

Experience should teach the governor and others concerned that it is dangerous to tamper with the popular will in electoral matters. No doubt the Republican ticket can be elected without the aid of the Citizens party indorsement. That party is confined to Allegheny county. But if Gov. Stone or the local "organization" leaders make the Citizens party indorsement an important issue by using extraordinary means to prevent it, the almost inevitable result will be to arouse public indignation, to the detriment of their particular friends who are asking the suffrages of Republican voters.

As a candidate for office Judge Pennypacker cannot afford to reject any support offered him. As a Republican Stone cannot consistently interfere to prevent him getting support. And if the governor disregards the party interest he ought to suffer, as he certainly will, when the people express their sentiments through the ballot box. Not being a candidate for anything on his own account, he can be reached only through his friends.

The New Chinese Minister.

While the place of Minister Wu Ting Fang can never quite be filled, Sir Liang Chen Tung promises to afford some diversion. Following his original declaration that he intends to bring his boys here to be educated in American schools, his first shot after landing in New York was to express his pleasure as being assigned to Washington, emphasized in this way: "I was afraid I might be sent to Paris."

Now Paris is considered worth while in diplomatic circles. It is a first-class mission. A great many people think it is the finest place on earth, but our new minister from China hesitates not a moment to say he is delighted to come to Washington and feared greatly he might be sent to Paris instead. Sir Liang may lack something of the wit and candor of Mr. Wu, but he must certainly be classed as one of the greatest among the "jolliers."

The Unfailing Smoke.

New York, since the beginning of the anthracite coal strike and the necessarily increased consumption of bituminous coal, has been fighting against smoke and soot. Philadelphia in the same period of time has also found more smoke and soot to complain of. Now comes Boston, which says it is smoky, too. "The change," says the Boston Herald, "has taken place here so gradually that we dare say that many, if not most, of our people are hardly aware that it has occurred, and yet on almost any day, if one will stand at some commanding point of outlook, where the range of view takes in a considerable part of the business section of Boston, he will find that all of the sharp outlines which in times past could be clearly defined are now blurred and rendered indistinct by the hazy condition of an atmosphere, loaded with imperceptibly small particles of coal soot. If these conditions exist during the summer time, when fuel is only used for power, light and cooking, one cannot help wondering what the result is to be in the colder months of the year, when enormous quantities of fuel are used for the purpose of heating buildings."

Pittsburgh is familiar with "the smoke nuisance," but the city's prosperity is inseparably associated with it. Chicago is accustomed to the grime from its smokestacks, though its protests are often heard. Cleveland and Cincinnati have indulged in periodical protests, and some time ago Cleveland claimed to have solved the problem of how to burn soft coal and keep clean. But the problem has not been solved by others and Cleveland may not be as clean as it is printed. The large western cities are, in general, victims of smoke and soot. When the anthracite mines resume the smoke period will be ended for New York, Philadelphia and Boston, but for the rest of us a tomorrow of cleanliness is not in sight. The generation that witnesses the rise of an inventor who will devise a process that will effectively prevent the waste represented by smoke with its attendant dust will rise up and call him blessed. And there will be money in it for him.

A Satisfactory Condition.

A few years ago we pointed with pride to the statistics of foreign trade, showing the United States to be a large exporter of the manufactures of iron and steel. Now we are no less satisfied when the same statistics show the United States to have fallen off in exports of these products and to have turned importer. The figures just published showing the commerce of a year reveal that our exports of iron and steel manufactures are $19,000,000 less than for the preceding year, while our imports have increased $10,000,000. When our exports were $19,000,000 greater it was a satisfaction that, having a surplus for export, we were able to market it. That made for prosperity. Now prosperity has grown so great that we are consuming more and more of the products of our mills at home. That also is a satisfaction. Nevertheless we are still large exporters, for while our exports of iron and steel products are $19,000,000 less than for the previous year, they reach the magnificent total of $58,552,562. When it is considered that in 1880 our exports of iron and steel products were valued at but $12,000,000, while in 1882 our imports were $67,000,000, against $27,000,000 in 1901, it does not appear that the foreign markets are lost to us, nor that prosperity is stimulating a too active foreign competition in our home market. The situation is altogether pleasing. A complete statement of the growth of the home market would make it much more so.

American Boys and Girls.

The cabled reports of the coronation of King Edward bring out into bold relief the fact that there is one field in which American women may shine that is closed to American men. American peeresses there were in plenty, duchesses, countesses and what not in the imperial pageant, and their costumes and jewels had, so to speak, the center of the stage. But no means, and we are glad to say it, has been devised by which the gilded youth of the great republic may take place in the foreground of British pageantry with their sisters. The money earned by the American father may win an alliance for the American girl that will entitle her to hold a canopy over the royal consort or stand in the front rank of the procession of the nobility and have her jewels commented upon, but the American boy cannot participate in any of it. He can only follow in the footsteps of his father in earning more money for a later on American girl to do what the American girl of today is doing. But there are compensations. The American boy may become president of the United States, which is the greatest office on earth; he may sit in the cabinet of the president, or be a United States senator, or the governor of a state, or a councilman with a graft, or a ward leader with a pull, or a policeman with brass buttons and a front that inspires respect, or a captain of industry, or a J. P. Morgan. To have a world like this to conquer and to be able to furnish the means to enable the American girl to outshine all others at a coronation is to be greater than the American girl. The earth and the fullness thereof are the Lord's, but the stewardship is in the hands of American boys. When the American girl is able to be all that the American boy may be she may not think it worth while to display the family wealth at royal court.

Annexation Sentiment in Cuba.

An eastern journal says it is strongly intimated that Cuba might desire to be annexed to England. The idea probably originated with the intimator, who thought it all out without outside assistance. Even if Cuba were to conceive such a desire, it could never be realized, for the Monroe doctrine is in active working order, and no country is more fully aware of it than England herself. She gave a practical proof of this knowledge only a week or two ago, when the British government formally withdrew all claim to sovereignty over certain islands of Honduras, acknowledging that they belonged to that republic. In the proclamation read to the inhabitants of Ruatan by the captain of the British cruiser Psyche, Great Britain declared that under treaties with the United States and Honduras, his majesty's government could no longer regard the islands as a British possession. This relinquishment was made in spite of the fact that the population is almost exclusively of British origin.

Another thing which goes to show that England would never encourage a Cuban annexation sentiment is the present visit of a deputation of Trinidad sugar producers to London, with the purpose of securing some encouragement to their industry. The deputation is instructed to remind Mr. Chamberlain that if Trinidad were under American control, as Porto Rico is, the sugar estates could be managed at a profit.

When annexation sentiment develops in Cuba it is certain to look to Porto Rico as an example, and not to Trinidad; but the Cubans must be allowed to develop that sentiment gradually. The United States must give the new republic every opportunity for national life. It is in honor bound to afford the encouragement contained in the reciprocity plan.

An American Cable to Manila.

The United States needs cable communication with its Pacific possessions, and this service is to be had without unnecessary delay, through private enterprise. The Pacific Cable Co. asks permission to lay a cable from San Francisco to China, by way of Honolulu and Guam, assuming all expense of construction and maintenance. The company promises special rates for government messages in return for the landing concessions, and agrees to yield practically absolute control in time of war.

President Roosevelt submitted the proposition to Attorney General Knox, who proposes some modifications in the conditions, designed to safeguard the public interests and protect individual patrons. The most important of these conditions is that the company construct a distinct line from China to Manila, thereby completing the communication between San Francisco and the Philippine islands without any necessity for dependence upon the English cable. It was the company's intention to use the cable now connecting Hongkong with Manila, and thus avoid the expense of duplication, but it would be decidedly better to have a distinctively American line all the way. Another condition suggested by Mr. Knox is that the United States may acquire the cable at any time in the future, at a price to be fixed by arbitrators appointed by the parties to the transaction.

The modified conditions ought to be acceptable to the people of the United States and to congress, if the company is willing to accept them. Built in this way, the government of the United States will secure cable communication with its new possessions without the disadvantages attendant upon government construction.

Ballooning to Health.

Great is science. Dr. Nangier of Paris recommends balloon ascensions for the anaemic. He asserts positively that three trips to the clouds will make more red blood corpuscles than six months in the mountains or at the seaside. Presumably he would also recommend persons who need a vacation to merely ascend in a balloon for a few hours and come down rested and ready for work.

There is one thing about this remedy, however, that may make it difficult of application. The anaemic are notoriously timid and weak-hearted. Suppose they refuse to accept the risk of ballooning to health, or are overcome when they try it? Of course, that will not refute the eminent Nangier's theory, not at all. But it might interfere much with its satisfactory confirmation. If the anaemics will try the cure and all of them get full of red blood, over in Paris, it may be worth while to introduce the new idea for the benefit of the "aunties" in this country.

Engineers and Engineers.

An old controversy has been revived. What shall we call the man who manipulates the levers and cocks on the locomotive? In general practice in this country he has been called an "engineer." In England he is called an "engine driver." Sometimes he is designated in America as an "engineman." Engineer is a term used to denote a man of high technical attainments, such as mechanical, electrical, mining and civil engineers, and it is contended the word is a misnomer applied to the man at the throttle on a locomotive.

In its highest sense it is not always a misnomer when so applied. Many of the men who preside over the destinies of fast trains are mechanical engineers. In any case, the word is better than the English "engine driver." It might be possible to compromise on engineman, which is, at least, intelligible and a single word. But why not engineer? If a distinction is needed he can be called a locomotive engineer, as logically as a man learned in mathematics and construction may be called a mechanical or civil engineer. As for the others we have the words electrician and mining expert. Really the man who operates an engine is not a driver. He is an engineer or engineman.

Evolution Exemplified.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

Over a week ago Mrs. A. Smith of Gridley placed a few eggs in the drawer of a kitchen table, and yesterday when she opened it, having forgotten the eggs meanwhile, she was much surprised to find little chicks therein alive and well. The steady heat for the preceding 10 days and the fire in the stove are supposed to have caused the hatching. Mrs. Smith will carefully attend her strangely acquired chicks.

TAMMANY CHIEFS AFRAID OF DEVERY

Fear His Leadership Would Shake Up Dry Bones to Breaking Point.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Aug. 10.

Tammany politics are getting hotter. William S. Devery is the man that is stirring up the fire, and he is doing it with the earnestness that distinguishes everything to which he puts his hand. The rest of the braves are scared. There is no mistake about it, and it looks as if the "Big Chief" will have a tremendous combination against him when the primaries take place. It is remembered that what was called "Deveryism" had something to do with the defeat of Tammany last fall and the placing of Seth Low in the mayor's chair. Tammany is afraid that if Devery attains his ambition, of being leader of the Ninth district, he will not be satisfied with less than the leadership of Tammany itself, and that will mean a shaking up of dry bones in the organization which may smash some of them altogether. Every unprejudiced observer believes that Devery will gain his point, whatever it may be. He has made himself popular in his district, and the freedom with which he has spent his money for the comfort and pleasure of the class that cannot always get for itself what it wanted, has changed the general sentiment with regard to the "chief." Last fall he was execrated by many who smile in a kindly way now when his name is mentioned. He has paid the rent for poor people, has supplied them with food free, has given them an excursion on the rivers and has entertained them with vaudeville performances and fireworks. He has made some telling speeches, too. While it may be all part of a laid-out plan, there is so much honest good nature in everything Devery does that no one blames him for having an ulterior object in his beneficence. If that is his way of conducting a political campaign, why, it is a good one, and it is a pity that other candidates for the suffrage of their fellow-citizens do not follow his example. That is the expression on all sides, and it is one the soundness of which no one can gainsay.

Chinese Princes at the Waldorf.

For the first time in six years the yellow dragon of China floated over the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday and today. Once before the national flag of Cathay was shaken out from the flagstaff of the hotel. That was when Li Hung Chang was in New York and, with his vast retinue, lived at the Waldorf for a few days. Prince Chen is a guest at the Waldorf, with Prince Tsai Chen, cousin of the emperor, and the same flag that was displayed for the late Li was brought forth from its wardrobe yesterday and flung to the breeze once more. Although the Chinese prince is a modest sort of man, his welcome to this city yesterday was as impressive as even royalty could desire. There were 300 Chinamen at the steamship pier and many tokens of good will met the newly-arrived party all the way uptown. New York enjoys itself when a personage comes from the other side, and made the most of the arrival of the two princes yesterday.

Order Succeeds Chaos.

Herald square was one of the most attractive places in this city today. The rubbish that had obstructed the sidewalks on the west side of Broadway in front of the Saks building had been removed and there was a clear way for the whole two blocks from Thirty-third to Thirty-fifth street. It has been the aim of the contractors to get their brick, lumber, iron, plate glass and other material out of the way for the Sunday promenaders, but today was the first Sunday on which they had succeeded in doing it thoroughly. It may seem a small matter to talk about, but it gave a great deal of comfort to many thousands of people today, all day long and far into the evening.

Cold Makes Degree in Guilt.

Four boys were released from a locked box car on the New York Central railroad at One Hundred and Fifty-ninth street yesterday. They had been stealing a ride up the state and had been inadvertently locked in and brought to New York. They were nearly starved. After being fed three of the youngsters were turned over to the Children's society to stay there till tomorrow, while the fourth, who was wicked enough to be colored, was locked up in a police station cell—which shows how foolish it is to be a negro, under some circumstances. Except in color, the four boys were all equally blamable.

Scalded by Apple Sauce.

Who would think there was death in apple-sauce, except when one eats too much of it? And yet, a boy 17 months old came to his end in this city yesterday through nothing worse than a plate of apple-sauce; and he did not eat any of it, either. It was boiling hot, and he managed to pull it off a table all over his face. He was scalded to death.

Melba in Town.

Nellie Melba is in this city. She came on the Campania yesterday, as handsome as ever and stouter than when she was last seen in Pittsburgh. She will go on to Australia at once via San Francisco, but will be back in January for a concert tour.

The New Archbishop.

It is known now that Bishop Farley will be the next archbishop of New York, succeeding Archbishop Corrigan. Bishop Farley has been administrator of the archepiscopal see of New York since the death of Archbishop Corrigan, and it has been supposed that he would be the deceased prelate's successor. He said yesterday that he had been informed unofficially that he had been appointed archbishop, and is awaiting official notification from the apostolic delegate at Washington.

Another Big Sunday for the Seaside.

Although there were showers today now and then, the day generally has been fair. This is the first Sunday of moderately good weather that New York has had since the wet St. Swithin's day which presaged 40 days and nights of rain. The attendance at Coney Island, Rockaway and other seashore resorts was not much larger today than on any other Sunday this summer, because the average holiday maker will not allow bad weather to interfere with his excursion. He goes anyhow, knowing that he can be under cover, if necessary, and that the smell of the brine is as refreshing under a cloudy sky with a deluge of rain as on a sunny day. Besides, yesterday was such a lovely day that the Saturday half-holiday tempted everyone to the seashore, and many of the excursionists stayed all night so as to be there early on Sunday. The same "dry" conditions prevailed at Coney as ruled last Sunday. Unless one had the secret of getting into places where the law was not strictly obeyed, there was no way of procuring strong drink, save by taking a full meal with it. At least, so the police say.

The New Star Opened.

W. T. Keogh's new Star theater opened for the season last night with Hi Henry's minstrels. The house was crowded from the footlights to the back wall of the gallery, and the beginning of the fall and winter campaign was most auspicious. Cool weather, a good show and people hungry for theatrical entertainment were the three reasons Manager Keogh gave me for the tremendous attendance.

Trolley Peace at Yonkers.

It was a good thing for excursionists today that there was a truce in the trolley strike at Yonkers today. An arrangement was reached yesterday by which the cars were to run as usual until Tuesday, when the directors of the road will act on the demands of their employes. It is believed that the difficulty will be satisfactorily adjusted at that time. It looked yesterday morning as if the whole Union railroad trolley system of Yonkers might be tied up, but at noon an agreement was reached and the trouble was over until Tuesday.

Removing Ruins Expensive Work.

It will cost the city of New York about $43,000 to tear down the Seventy-first regiment armory, which was badly twisted by fire in February. This is sad for the city but profitable for the contractors. As soon as the ruins were cool enough a firm of contractors put a large number of men at work on the ruins. For that job the city will be asked to pay $17,000. In April the armory board obtained an appropriation of $3,350 and continued the work of rendering the building safe. The contract was awarded and the contractor rendered a bill for $900 67. The remainder of the appropriation will be used in boarding up the ruins until the contract for a new armory is awarded. This contract will include the clearing away of the ruins. Even after the first work of razing the ruins had been done, it was found that the big pile was a menace to the subway work in Fourth avenue and Thirty-fourth street and the original contracting firm were put on the job again. The cost of the second job is estimated at $21,000.

New Peril to Trolley Passengers.

The deadly "side-wipe," which was referred to in this letter a few days ago, was in evidence in an "L" train yesterday, showing that such perils are not confined to the big steam railroads. As a rule, one supposes he is safe from such accidents on the elevated, for there are no freight trains, cuttings, embankments or tunnels; but there are repairs to houses along the route, and that means danger sometimes. The big beam that caught the side of a Ninth avenue "L" train yesterday afternoon and frightened everyone in the car, might have caused a dreadful loss of life. That it did not is due to good luck rather than to extraordinary care on the part of anyone concerned.

Pittsburgh Singer in Business.

Many middle-aged Pittsburghers will remember a young man named Gay, a singer, who was prominent in musical circles in Pittsburgh in the early eighties. He and his beautiful young wife often sang in concerts in company with other favorites of that time. It was the period in Pittsburgh musical history when Paul Zimmerman was the principal tenor and Jean Wallace the most popular soprano. Prof. Tetedoux, who used to be exceedingly prominent in Pittsburgh musical matters, had just left the city to settle in New York or Boston, and there was room for some one else in Pittsburgh to be the impressario. Young Gay sought the honor and might have gained it had not his career been cut off suddenly. He was employed in the pension office under the late Russell Errett, and managed to get into some smart there that resulted in his leaving the city. I saw him yesterday and learned that he is in business in Broadway down town and has been exceedingly successful, both commercially and socially. He does not look much older than when he sang at his last concert in Pittsburgh, in old Library hall, 20 years ago.

The St. Paul-La Touraine Race.

The St. Paul and La Touraine, both of which arrived in port yesterday, had an exciting race on the Atlantic from the time they were in sight of each other Friday morning until they reached the lightship. Sighted off Fire Island within a minute of each other, the St. Paul, reaching Sandy Hook at six minutes before 10 o'clock, led her rival by eight minutes. The St. Paul first saw the big French liner Friday morning at daybreak. She could be faintly seen in the distance, dead ahead. All day the great ships put forth their best efforts, and at night the Touraine was still far ahead. At six minutes to 8 o'clock yesterday the American liner passed Fire Island and the passengers had the satisfaction of seeing the French steamship close alongside, so close, in fact, that Capt. Albrecht shouted to the French steamship to keep off. From there to the lightship the St. Paul continued to gain, beating the French steamer by some three hours.

Washing in the Orient.

From the Chicago News.

The Japanese rip their garments apart for every washing and they iron their clothes by spreading them on a flat board and leaning this up against the house to dry. The sun takes the wrinkles out of the clothes and some of them have quite a luster. The Japanese woman does her washing out of doors. Her wash tub is not more than six inches high.

The hardest-worked washerwomen in the world are the Coreans. They have to wash about a dozen dresses for their husbands and they have plenty to do. The washing is usually done in cold water and often in running streams. The clothes are pounded with paddles until they shine like a shirt front fresh from a laundry.

Good Crops Everywhere.

From the St. Louis Globe Democrat.

The northwestern states are jubilant about their crops, but the middle west has an equal reason to rejoice. Texas, too, as shown by the latest reports, has not been hit as hard by the floods as was feared. The outlook all over the country for almost all the great staples was never brighter in the opening days of August than it is now. This promises to be one of the red-letter years for the American farmer and planter.

THE HAPPY HARVEST SONG.

We've had a sight o' summertime the weary way along,
But soon we'll all be singin' of the happy harvest song;
The fields, with cotton white,
Make visions of delight,
An' we hear the fiddle singin' where the fire's blazin' bright!

An' we'll soon be done with toilin', where the fields are ripe to reap
An' we'll hear the glad songs ringin' from the valleys cool an' deep;
The songs of "Harvest Home,"
Where the autumn breezes roam,
An' the barns are piled with plenty, an' the honey's in the comb!

Come on, O merry season, when the world will seem as bright
As the roses on the cheeks of love, whose eyes dance with delight!
The merry time of fall,
When the holly's in the hall,
An' we hear the fiddle's music, an' we swing our sweethearts, all!

—Frank L. Stanton in Atlanta Constitution.

ERRATIC BEAUTY WILL BE DUCHESS

Prince de Sagan Has Announced Intention to Wed Widow Crespin.

By the MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

It is not former Vice President Levi P. Morgan's daughter Helen who will bear the title of Duchess of Valencay with which many of her friends persist in endowing her, without a vestige of right or reason. The next duchess of Valencay, of Talleyrand, of Sagan and of Perigord, will be that much discussed lady who styles herself Mme. Du Cast, but whom the French courts persist in describing as "Widow Crespin." For the Prince de Sagan, eldest son and heir of the imbecile and paralytic duke of Talleyrand, and the elder brother of Levi P. Morgan's French son-in-law, has announced his intention of marrying Mme. Du Cast, and she on her side has expressed her readiness to become his bride.

It was because of their engagement that the prince took upon himself the other day to slap the face of Maitre Barboux the white-whiskered and white-haired lawyer, who during the course of some legal proceedings, had asserted in court that she was the lady who had posed for Gervex's celebrated picture of "La Ferre au Masque," which represents a very beautiful woman who has stepped out of her bath, clothed in nothing but a "loup" or black velvet mask covering part of the face.

Mme. Du Cast sued the old lawyer for slander, furnishing absolute proof that she was not the original of the undraped beauty in question. And she could obtain no redress, as the lawyer was held to have merely done his duty to his client by stating what he believed at the time to be the case. It was thereupon that the Prince de Sagan slapped his face.

Mme. Du Cast is the sister of a notary of the name of Designe, and the widow of a man who acquired an immense fortune by furnishing goods to poor people on the installment plan, and also by letting out clothes on hire. She is very rich, resembles the Empress Eugenie in the latter's palmiest days, and is crazed for notoriety, having in turn distinguished herself as a meterist, as a balloonist and as a crack shot, mainly with the idea of getting herself talked about. Her enemies, that is to say, the members of her own family and of that of her dead husband, say all kinds of horrible things about her, and paint her reputation in the blackest of colors. But as her future husband spent almost a year in jail in connection with charges for forgery, which were compromised and dropped, there can be but little question of a mesalliance. Of course, the prince's family, with whom he is at daggers drawn, is bitterly opposed to the match.

Memorial in Bad Taste.

It is seldom I write in these columns anything derogatory about the present French government, while I have never failed to speak in the highest possible terms about that excellent chief magistrate, President Loubet. It is impossible, however, to refrain from questioning the taste and feeling that have led the present administration at Paris to select Quiberon for the posthumous glorification of Gen. Hoche.

That lonely fishing town on the Druid haunted Breton peninsula witnessed one of the most terrible tragedies of the great French republic, when those illustrious emigres who aimed at the restoration of monarchy and the Christian religion in lieu of the cult of the goddess of Reason established by the terrorists, were pressed by the pitiless bayonets of Gen. Hoche's troops down the narrow tongue of land into the waves of a bit of the sea so wild it is known all along the western coast of France by the name of "la mer sauvage" (the savage sea).

Still more terrible was the scene when the bishops, priests and aristocrats who had surrendered on a promise of quarter, were shot down in batches by the order of Tallien, one of the most sanguinary ruffians of the first revolution. This tragedy was referred to in terms of exaltation by Cammile Pelletan, the new French minister of marine, when presiding two Sundays ago at the unveiling of the Hoche memorial in a land where there is hardly a noble or a peasant family that has not furnished victims to what is known in history as the tragedy of Quiberon.

The minister in extolling Tallion and ridiculing the pretensions to martyrdom of Tallien's victims, was guilty of precisely the same breach of good taste, as if one of the members of the present administration at Washington were to go down into the southern states to erect there a monument to some northern general particularly conspicuous for his severity in the civil war and who had then availed himself of the opportunity afforded by the inauguration of the monument to praise the general's harshness and ridicule those southerners who had been the objects thereof.

Rank Treason to Royalty.

Conspicuous by their absence from among those members of the aristocracy and of the great world of France who paid their respects to the duchess of Orleans when she was in Paris the other day were the Count de Greffulhe, and his charming wife, who is one of the leaders of fashion on the banks of the Seine, and a sister of that Prince Joseph de Caraman-Chimay, whose domestic troubles with his former American wife, Clara Ward, have been a source of such international scandal. The count has just been decorated by the present French government with the cross of the Legion of Honor and with the commandership of the Ordre de Merite Agricole, and his action in accepting these distinctions from a government such as the one which now holds office in France is regarded by the royalties, and especially by the duke and duchess of Orleans, as rank treason to the monarchial cause.

The Greffulhes are of Dutch origin and the family may be said to have been founded by the grandfather of the present count. The first Greffulhe attached himself to the fortunes of King Louis XVIII. when the latter was in exile, and being a banker, was of much use to him in a financial way. Louis XVIII. figures in history as a monster of ingratitude. But he did not show himself forgetful in the case of his Dutch banker. For he conferred upon him the title of count, created him a peer of France and entrusted him with all sorts of financial operations on behalf of the government which proved most profitable. The count died in 1820, leaving a son six years of age, who on attaining his majority in 1839 became just as useful to King Louis Philippe and to his government in a financial way as his father had been to Louis XVIII. Indeed, Count Urbain Greffulhe succeeded the Lafittes as banker to the king and managed all those stock jobbing operations and coups de bourse which the monarch was so fond of indulging in, and by means of which he brought into existence the enormous fortune of the house of Orleans.

When Marshal MacMahon became president of the French republic and surrounded himself with ministers, such as the late Duke de Broglie, who were avowed Orleanists, the late Count Greffulhe became a member of the senate.

Brilliant Wife Wins Honors.

His son Henry, the present count, married, as I have stated above, the sister of Prince Chimay, and thanks to her brilliancy of wit, to her elegance and to her powers of fascination, his town house near the Arc de Triomphe became the headquarters of everything that was ultra fashionable and monarchist in France, while no foreign royalty ever visited Paris without being entertained by the count and countess at their beautiful country seat at Bois-Boudran, a magnificent place, swarming with game and situated at about an hour's distance from the capital. The countess is passionately fond of music and to her more than anyone else belongs the credit of accustoming French people to the works of Richard Wagner.

Some years ago the count endeavored to get into parliament and secured his election to the chamber of deputies for Brest. But one of his electoral agents was indiscreet in his use of money and on a charge of corruption brought by Camille Pelletan, who is now minister of marine, the count's election was declared invalid, and the seat was awarded instead to his adversary, Frederick Humbert, husband of the lady who has recently acquired so much celebrity in connection with the greatest swindle of the present or past century.

French politics show curious changes. For today we find the Count de Greffulhe decorated by a government of which one of the leading members is Camille Pelletan, while not merely the French authorities, but the police of every civilized country on the face of the globe are busily engaged in hunting high and low for Frederick Humbert and his wife.

King Edward, according to reports received from London, has decided to break up his racing stable for a time. His horses have been doing very badly for one or two years past, especially last year, when running in the name and colors of the duke of Devonshire, and the king is so convinced the present lot of race horses in his stable are no good that he has resolved to dispose of them all. He will continue his breeding stud at Sandringham and while he will not race, he will breed, his yearlings being sold at Newmarket every summer.

Not as Bad as It Looked.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

She reached home all out of breath and terribly excited.

"What do you think?" she gasped at her husband. "Our minister's a bigamist—a terrible, unprincipled scoundrel, who boasts of his villainy."

"Heavens!" the man replied. "What has he been—Olivia! You are not mixed up—speak, woman! What has happened?"

"No, no! Merciful Providence! Don't think I am mixed up in it in any way. I met him a little while ago, and in a pleasant way told him I had been reading about a New York preacher who is going to marry a woman with several million dollars. Henry, what do you think he said?"

"Gracious, how can I guess?" he panted.

"He said: 'That is nothing. Every little while I marry a woman who is worth a million or so!' Oh, I pity his poor wife and children!"

She is still wondering why her depraved husband refused to keep on being shocked.

SMALL BOY THINKS A LOT OF A PENNY

Means That Are Adopted to Escape Paying Toll—Things Seen by the Engineers.

A PENNY isn't much; but to a boy at end of a toll bridge it is sometimes a small fortune. Ask the toll keeper at either end of the Sixth street bridge how much time and energy it takes to make the city "kid" produce, and he will likely tell you that he earns most of his salary in that way. For the boy without a penny or the one who is opposed by principle to bridge monopolies is bristling with

ATLANTIC CITY.

Yesterday the Banner Sunday of the Season—Good Results of Mayor Stoy's Appeal.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—All records for the second Sunday in August were broken today, a careful estimate putting the number of visitors and residents at 300,000. Saturday and today the railroads brought more than 50,000 persons into the city, and these, added to the throngs already here, made this the banner Sunday of this year. This message came from the mayor tonight regarding his appeal to cottagers to assist in the entertainment of visitors:

"I have received numerous telephone communications and telegrams from people outside the city asking if the congestion, as outlined in my proclamation, still exists and if visitors can now be accommodated. I am happy to say that owing to the organized effort and the noble response of the people to my proclamation, which will continue for the remainder of the season, all who are now here have now been cared for and no one need hesitate to come to Atlantic City through fear of not being sheltered."

CHAUTAUQUA.

Bishop Vincent Says the School Is Not the Only Place for Education.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—This is baccalaureate Sunday at Chautauqua and that fact, in addition to the one that Bishop Vincent was to preach the sermon to the graduating class of 1902, brought a great audience to the amphitheater this morning. Bishop Vincent took for his text the words, "Keep thy heart with diligence, for out of it are the issues of life," but the sermon was a plea for education in the home. He said in part:

"This is an age of education. Our civilization is distinguished by the variety and amplitude of its educational facilities fostered by the government and the church. Everywhere we find libraries, schools, colleges, universities and out of school devices for promoting education. The world concedes the importance of educating select classes, the men and women who are to make their mark in the world; but members of the so-called common class are in danger of losing their desire for education and becoming mere tools, machines, beasts of burden, living simply to live and to serve folk who care to do more than live as animals live.

"The sharp line drawn between educational processes and the ordinary, everyday life is most unfortunate. I regard as false in theory and disastrous in application the idea of subdividing and distributing the great agencies of life, the home for physical and social training, the school for intellectual discipline, the church for religious worship and salvation. It is a fatal heresy, damaging the home, weakening the school and robbing the church.

"No man liveth unto himself. In fact, no man can live unto himself, for his unconscious influence and example are perpetually affecting those with whom he comes in contact. Live first of all for your own children, then for your neighbor's children, live for your homes and the homes of your community, and live for the homes that are to be planted on the earth after you leave it."

ANOTHER LINE OF CARS IN OPERATION

PITTSBURGH RAILWAYS CO. CONTINUES TO BRANCH OUT.

New Division Began Running Toward Verona Yesterday—Concession to the Workers in Homestead—Other Trolley Improvements Being Made Rapidly.

Cars began running regularly yesterday on the Wilkinsburg end of the new Verona and Wilkinsburg line. This is one of the Mellon lines that was building when the Pittsburgh Railways Company took control of all the local roads.

When completed it will connect Oakmont, Verona, Sandy Creek and other places in that vicinity with Wilkinsburg and Pittsburgh by trolley. The portion put into operation yesterday opens up the northeastern end of Wilkinsburg and gives thousands of people trolley service to and from their homes.

The new line begins at Penn avenue and traverses Center, Wallace and Swissvale avenues, and Glenn and Mortier streets to the borough line. Ninety-pound rails were used and the space between rails paved with firebrick.

Beyond the borough line the work is being pushed to completion. Cars will be running into Verona and Oakmont in a few weeks. The fare from the borough line to downtown Pittsburgh is 5 cents, transfers being given at Penn and Center avenues.

Another Improvement in Wilkinsburg.

Another trolley improvement in Wilkinsburg that will be made in a few days will be a new loop for the Wilkinsburg and East Pittsburgh cars. At present these cars pass through the railroad tunnel at Wilkinsburg to Franklin street, to Wood, to Penn and to Swissvale avenue. It is intended to run them through the tunnel to Rebecca street, where a new track has been laid, and along Rebecca street to Swissvale avenue. This will cut off a mile of roundabout travel for the people who use this route and they will save 5 minutes each trip.

The extension of the present Mount Lebanon line to Charleroi via the Pittsburgh Charleroi street railway, another Mellon line, is being pushed so rapidly that cars from Mount Lebanon to Castle Shannon will be running in about two weeks. The distance between the two points is three miles. When the extension is made cars will run between Castle Shannon and Union station via Brownsville avenue and Smithfield street.

Other new lines the Pittsburgh Railways Company is pushing is one out East street, Allegheny, to the city line, which will open up a large territory. Another is the road from Wilmerding to Pitcairn, which will be opened the last of this month. This is the line that will go to Trafford City. Cars will be running into the new town this fall.

The running of West End cars via a loop at Penn avenue, Fifth street, Liberty avenue and Fourth street instead of bringing them up to Fifth avenue and Market street has been temporarily delayed over the non-arrival of frogs and switches.

Homestead Workers Get a Concession.

For a long time mill men living along Second avenue have been trying to get to the Carnegie mills in Homestead for one fare. The terminal of the United Company's tracks, in Homestead, were at Eighth avenue, below the Steel Works park. Men employed at the Carnegie plant had to walk three-quarters of a mile to the mill entrance or pay another fare on the Monongahela cars. Now the terminal of the United's Homestead cars has been made Munhall, which is east of the mill entrance, and the men can go to or from the mills to any point along Second avenue or downtown to Market street, Pittsburgh, for one fare.

For the first time in the history of the Monongahela line, trail cars are now being operated between Kennywood and downtown Pittsburgh. They were put on to help relieve the pressure of travel to and from the park, and they work successfully on the hills. The motor cars hauling them have been equipped with extra heavy motors.

THOUSANDS IN CAMP.

Religious Sermon Held by Chaplains of Second Ohio Brigade—Troops Leave Newark Today.

NEWARK, O., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—The last scenes in the big encampment of the Second brigade, O. N. G., were enacted here today. Fully 15,000 persons visited the grounds and viewed the interesting exercises.

At 3 o'clock a big union religious service was held in the grove in front of Gen. Speak's headquarters. Chaplain Hampton of the Seventh regiment read the scripture lession, Chaplain Hickcock of the Fifth, offered prayer, and Chaplains Priest of the Eighth and Hewitt of the Fourth delivered addresses. The religious exercises were followed by a band concert given by the five bands combined, 150 pieces.

The event of the day was the review of the entire brigade by the governor, Maj.-Gen. Dick, Brig.-Gens. Speaks and McMacken and their staffs. The brigade breaks camp tomorrow.

YOUNG WOMAN ATTACKED.

Men Run to Her Assistance and Capture Her Assailant.

SHARON, PA., Aug. 10.—(Special.) Miss Alice, daughter of the late Rev. Mr. Hartmeiz, was attacked last night while returning from Henry's store, where she is employed. While walking down River street a man jumped from behind a tree and caught her by the throat, throwing her to the sidewalk.

Dr. Phelan and others, hearing her cries, ran to her assistance and captured the fellow, and he was turned over to the police. He gave his name as F. Bowater. He will be given a hearing tomorrow. The girl was badly frightened, and her neck is lacerated from the fellow's grasp.

CAUSE OF PENN AVENUE FIRE SO FAR A MYSTERY

City and Underwriters' Officers Will Make Investigation Today.

ALL ABOVE FOURTH FLOOR

Estimates of Damage Done Have Been Figured Down to About $50,000—Building and Stock Were Insured—Story of Warning.

The cause of the fire yesterday morning in the McCullough estate building, Penn avenue and Twelfth street, is so far a mystery. It is said that no one had been in the building for hours prior to the discovery of the fire, and the usual theory of spontaneous combustion has been advanced. Electric dynamos on the fourth and fifth floors of the building were not operating.

Chief Engineer Miles S. Humphreys of the bureau of fire said yesterday that he had no idea as to the cause of the fire. He remarked that the place was a storage house in fact, as well as name, the stores of paints, oils and varnishes of the DeNoon Bros'. Paint and Glass Company being packed closely, from floor to ceilings, on the three floors which this company occupied.

Fire Marshal W. D. McGill is expected to make an investigation as to the cause today. Capt. J. A. A. Brown, superintendent of the bureau of building inspection, said yesterday that he expects to make an investigation into the causes today, adding that from his observance of the fire Sunday morning he could say nothing on this score.

Water Damaged Much.

The entire stock in the building was much damaged from fire and water. Most of the floors are running with water, oil and red paint predominating. In the basement, where much of the packing house product of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Packing Company was stored, there stood most of yesterday about three feet of water and attaches of the place declared that most of the stock of this company, except that in the refrigerating department, would be badly damaged. DeNoon Bros'. Paint and Glass Company had an immense store of window glass in the building, estimated at 25,000 boxes. This is scarcely damaged.

Revised estimates of the damage done by different parties interested cut down the first estimates materially. The aggregate is now said to be about $50,000. The damage to the building is estimated at about $10,000. The walls and floors are little damaged, except by the water, and the flood of paint oil. The loss of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Packing Company is estimated at about $10,000; that of DeNoon Bros. at $25,0000, and of Bernard Gloeckler, dealer in butchers' supplies, at about $8,000.

Estimates of Loss.

Mr. Gloeckler said yesterday afternoon: "It is difficult to estimate the damage done my stock. We are constantly taking out and putting in stores. I have not seen the interior of the building, but the water which poured into the top floor where my stock was stored will probably ruin it. The insurance which I carried in different companies on this stock aggregated about $10,000, and I would estimate the damage at about $8,000."

None of the representatives of the DeNoon Bros'. Company who were accessible would make estimates on their loss, saying, however, that they believe that it is fully covered by insurance. Since their heavy loss by fire at No. 913 Liberty avenue, DeNoon Bros. have put a vast amount of material into the McCullough building.

The McCullough estate, which owns the building, is represented by Harry Darlington. He is out of the city. Others interested said that the building is covered by insurance.

Building Little Damaged.

The structure is estimated to have cost $45,000. The floors are 12 inches thick and seem to be little damaged.

There is scarcely any evidence of fire below the fourth floor except the smoked condition of some of the window glass boxes. The blaze seemed to have been confined to the fifth floor. Chief Humphreys of the fire bureau said yesterday that he believes there was no fire below the fifth floor. He made no examination of the building.

William R. Fox, manager for Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, said yesterday that he has no idea of the amount of insurance the company carried; that the matter of insurance was in the hands of the managers of the company at Chicago headquarters. He believes that the stock of the packing house is badly damaged, estimating the figure at about $10,000.

Firemen's Good Work.

The entire fire-fighting forces of Pittsburgh worked hard to check the fire from the response to the first alarm at about 12:35 o'clock until 3 o'clock without appreciable effect. The building was deluged with water. Shortly after 3 o'clock, however, the fire was well under control, its subduing being as unexpected as its start. This was accomplished by the firemen before the flames had passed below the fifth floor or had penetrated the roof.

It is said that there were no lights or fires on the fifth floor, where the fire originated. There are electrical dynamos on both the fourth and fifth floors, but these were not in operation. There is said to have been no watchman in the building and the story of a Twelfth street resident, named John Junkers, who avers that he warned two policemen of an unusual light in the fifth floor at 11:30 Saturday night, will be investigated.

DILATORY DISTRICTS.

School Appropriations Endangered by Backwardness of Reports.

HARRISBURG, PA., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—Payment of the state school appropriation this year is being delayed by the neglect of many school boards to forward to the department of public instruction their annual district reports, affidavits and certificates. This delay is not only endangering the state appropriation due the delinquent districts, but is holding back the tabulation of the reports in many counties for the annual report of State Superintendent Schaeffer.

Another reason why these reports are especially needed is that this year the triennial election of county superintendents took place. In a number of counties the conventions did not fix the salary of the superintendent, and the department is unable to do so until their reports are on file. Of course, the first quarter's salary, which is due this month, cannot be paid until the salary is fixed.

As a worm-destroyer, Dr. D. Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge is unequaled, and to the weak and sickly, it is wonderfully helpful as a strength-giver.

WHY THE JEWS SHOULD RECEIVE NEW TESTAMENT

The Rev. Dr. E. M. Wood Advances Good Arguments for Conversion.

WRITTEN FIRST FOR THEM

Like Old Testament, Writers of New State It Is First for Jew, Then for Gentile—Only Possible Fulfillment of Prophecies.

In the Fifth Avenue Methodist Episcopal church yesterday morning the Rev. Dr. E. M. Wood, pastor, delivered an interesting sermon on "Why the Jews should receive the New Testament." His text was Matthew xvii:5; "While He yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them; and behold a voice out of the cloud, which said: 'This is my beloved Son, in Whom I am well pleased; hear ye Him.'"

"We have often wondered why the skeptic has not made more out of the fact that the Jews, as a people, have rejected the New Testament. If this were true of the English or German people it would be most difficult to answer the objection. But as to the Jews it seems that their refusal to accept the record is not founded upon good reasons, that is, not on critical or historical grounds, but rather on a rational prejudice or religious sentiment. But whatever may be the cause or causes of their continued refusal to accept this record we candidly believe they should now fully and cordially accept the New Testament.

Conversion of Jews.

"It is well known that especially of late years great efforts have been made, particularly in the larger cities, to convince these people of the truth of the New Testament, and it is known also that many are openly and many more secretly accepting this record. And among these are some distinguished scholars and writers, both in Europe and America. And surely such efforts are worthy of hearty support since they come within the purview of the prophetic vision when all nations should flow into this truth, and also within the gospel scheme that we should teach all nations.

"And if among these nations any should be preferred, it would seem that the Jew has the first claim. Jesus, himself a Jew, first offered the Gospel to this race. He sent his missionaries first to this people, and Paul, although, his mission was chiefly to the Gentiles, gives them first offer and writes of the obligation as to the Jew first, and thus he says that to the Jew there is 'much advantage every way.' And while in this country they may not be found in large numbers in the severer forms of labor, as in mining and in the mills, yet they are an important element in banking and in commerce and in mercantile pursuits.

An Important Element.

"And hence it seems important that they should be won over, if possible, to our Christian institutions and civilization, in order that there may be a truly loyal citizenship and a homogeneity and solidarity, so needful to make a strong nation and government.

"To this end I will offer a few reasons why they should accept the New Testament. And first of all it is their own literature. Every writer in the New Testament, save one, Luke, was a Jew. I know of no race so much attached to their own literature as the Jews. With what a jealous eye they have watched over the Old Testament in all the strange vicissitudes of their history!

"It is true that the Hebrew is no longer their exclusive tongue, as they now speak almost every language under the sun. And this has been true ever since their 70 years' residence in Babylon, and the two great dispersions which have scattered them all over the world.

Greek Was Recognized.

"It may be said that the New Testament was written in Greek, a heathen language, hence they cannot receive it. But they must not forget those 70 learned Jews who went down to Alexandria and translated the Old Testament into Greek, which became the Bible of Christ and the apostles and the church for about 300 years.

"They must not forget also that Aquila, a Jew, gave another translation of the Old Testament in the Greek, and also that probably Matthew wrote his Gospel first in Hebrew and soon after, for the convenience of the people, who for the most part spoke Greek, translated it into Greek. And strictly speaking can any one language be more sacred than another, except as it may become the vehicle for the transmission of sacred truth?

Can it be shown that God gave the Hebrew language, as such, to the Jew?

"Is it not true that the Hebrew is but one member of a family, and the other members as sacred as this, except that providence selected this one as the medium of the Old Testament revelation?

Were Hebrew Writers.

"And, further, to meet the objection, the New Testament has been translated into the Hebrew. How proud would the Christian world be if they could but put down Paul and John and James and their writings in the history of English literature! But they were Jews writing in Greek. And outside of the Old Testament have the Jews any literature superior to or the equal of the New Testament?

"It is worth remembering that the New Testament was all written before a line of the Talmud, so much revered by most Jews, was written, which latter was written about A. D. 200, so that these writers did not copy anything from the Talmud. And it was all written before Josephus, who never quotes from any book of the Talmud, had finished his work, which was in 93, with the possible exception of the apocalypse.

"But the Talmud often refers to and quotes from the New Testament. And now, admitting that there are many wise and good things in the Talmud, yet comparing the Talmud, as a whole, with the New Testament, as a whole, I think any impartial scholar will place the New Testament far above it in its moral precepts, and in its relation of actual facts.

Wonderful Piece of Literature.

"Indeed, may I not broaden my statement and say that of all the books which have been written on ethics, in any language and in any age, there is not one that any intelligent, candid man would wish to substitute for the New Testament. Again, the New Testament has many extracts from the Old Testament which should cause the Jews to receive it. There are over 300 distinct quotations from the Old Testament in the new and more than as many more references to Old Testament facts and events. These facts are familiar to the Jews and mostly cherished by them.

"But it may be said there are in the New Testament so many severe censures and maledictions against the Jews that they could hardly be expected to accept it. But then, are there not scattered all through the Old Testament some of the most severe denunciations against this people, as having been guilty at times of the most flagrant crimes, and yet they cling to and justly revere that old record.

Christians Also Arraigned.

"Besides this, the New Testament contains some of the most terrible arraignments of the Gentile world for the crimes for which they have been guilty, and even professed Christians have been charged with enormous sins, and yet Christian martyrs have died in defense of the record. And, again, Jew and Christian should unite to receive the New Testament because the Old Testament cannot stand without the New.

"The time was when the Old Testament could stand alone, as it looked forward to the fulfillment of certain prophetic statements.

"And now, then, if those prophecies in the main have not been fulfilled in the New Testament, there is no reasonable probability that they will ever be accomplished. And if they are not fulfilled those prophecies are false. It is not much wonder then that a large number of the Jews have turned infidel, being unwilling to accept the New Testament record.

"Is it probable that there ever will be another and a better New Testament?

"Can a better Christ ever be given to the world, one of purer character and holier teaching?

"Is it probable that any writers will ever appear, who can give purer precepts for personal life, who will teach a loftier idea of God, and whose teachings, if followed, would bring greater peace and order to society? Such expectations are utopian.

"The New Testament is the final revelation, for there can be nothing higher or better."

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT THE SEWICKLEY CAMP

Annual Outdoor Meeting of Methodists Full of Interest—Big Rally Next Saturday.

Yesterday was an interesting day at Mount Sewickley, back of Leetsdale, in spite of the rain that came down in torrents for a short time in the afternoon. It was the first Sunday of the annual Meathodist Episcopal camp meeting. In the afternoon the Rev. R. J. McKee had charge of the services and delivered an interesting sermon. In the evening the Rev. S. H. Muller preached. Large crowds visited the grounds and attended the services during the day. Many arrived at the camp Saturday evening and spent yesterday with friends who are occupying cottages.

Services will be held every day and evening this week, and next Saturday the District Epworth League rally will be held. Leaguers will be present from all parts of the district, and interesting services will be held.

The annual meeting of the stockholders, which was to have been held Saturday afternoon, did not take place, as not enough members were present to make the meeting possible. It will be held next Saturday. The question of selling the camp grounds, which was so agitated a year ago, will hardly come up this year, as it has been practically decided to hold to the grounds at least for the present.

STRANGERS IN PULPITS.

Pittsburgh Congregations Heard Sermons Preached by Visitors.

The congregations of many Protestant churches in Pittsburgh and vicinity were treated to sermons which were delivered by ministers who are visiting in this section. The pulpit of the Forty-third Street Presbyterian church was occupied by the Rev. Dr. S. S. Linhart, president of the Blairsville College for Women, at Blairsville, Pa., and the Rev. E. G. McClure, also of Blairsville, filled the pulpit of the Shadyside United Presbyterian church at the morning services. The Rev. T. H. Heuch supplied the pulpit of the Rev. Dr. Henry T. McClelland in the Bellefield Presbyterian church, and the Rev. S. E. Elliott the pulpit of the Rev. Dr. Charles S. McClelland at the Mt. Washington Presbyterian church.

The sermons at the Arch Street Presbyterian church of Allegheny were preached by the Rev. J. Vernon Bell of Dubois. The congregation of the Oakland Methodist Episcopal church heard a sermon by the Rev. G. H. Barber of New England. The Rev. L. E. Hawk of Toledo, O., preached at the Ninth United Presbyterian church, Allegheny, and Yoshibumi Abe of Tokio, Japan, at the First Cumberland Presbyterian church, East End.

NOT WHOLLY FIREPROOF.

Niles Company Suffers Loss of $25,000 by Gasoline Explosion.

NILES, O., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—A bad fire here this afternoon in the plant of the National Fire Proof Company caused a loss of $25,000. Much valuable machinery was destroyed. A can of gasoline exploded and the workmen who were near the explosion were covered with the burning gasoline and badly burned.

The fire occurred just after the night turn had started to work, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. One hundred men will be thrown out of work, and the loss is almost complete, there being small insurance.

FOUR NEW ALTARS WERE DEDICATED

IMPOSING CEREMONIES IN CHURCH OF ST. PAUL'S MONASTERY.

Relics of St. Benedict and St. Victoria Were Translated and Are Now Exposed to View of Faithful in the Church.

The Church of St. Paul's monastery in Mt. Oliver was the scene yesterday of extraordinary solemn religious services. From 6 o'clock in the morning until nearly the same hour in the evening, with an intermission lasting only from 1 until 3, services were going on at the monastery. During that time there was a consecration of four new altars in the church by Bishop John W. Shanahan of Harrisburg, a solemn high mass and a procession from St. Michael's church to the monastery, with the relics of a martyred saint. The ceremony of the translation of the relics is not common in Pittsburgh, and much interest was therefore manifested by the Catholics of the city.

At 6 a. m. Bishop Shanahan and a number of the priests of the house proceeded to the monastery church, to dedicate the four new marble altars, of the Virgin Mary, St. Joseph, the Sacred Heart and St. Paul of the Cross, the last-named being the founder of the Passionist order.

For four hours Bishop Shanahan and his assistants were on their feet. The ceremony of consecration consists of prayers, incensing and the annointing of the altars with the holy oils. The altars were all consecrated together. As soon as one stage in the ceremony was reached with one altar, the same stage was gone through with at other altars.

Was Long Ceremony.

There was a constant procession of the bishop and his assistants from one altar to another, as in the course of the ceremony each altar had to be visited 36 times. A large congregation was present the whole time, and during the ceremony two masses were read at the main altar, which had been consecrated long ago.

The church now contains five altars, all of Carrara marble, at all of which masses may be said. The consecration of the altars is supposed to be done by the bishop of the diocese, but Bishop Richard Phelan in this case delegated his authority to Bishop Shanahan, as, on account of his age and recent illness, he was unable to perform the ceremony. Indeed, Bishop Shanahan himself, despite his fewer years, found himself too tired to celebrate the solemn high mass which followed the consecration.

The celebrant at the high mass was Father Werner, of the Redemptorist order, assisted by a deacon and a sub-deacon, Bishop Shanahan being present in the sanctuary, seated on the Episcopal throne. The sermon was preached by Father Valentine Leonard, of the Passionist order. Father Leonard is stationed at the monastery in Cincinnati, but he was born within a stone's throw of the Mt. Oliver monastery, and therefore many of his hearers were men and women among whom he had spent his early youth.

Father Leonard's text was from the Revelations of St. John: "I saw the new Jerusalem coming down out of heaven, like a bride adorned for her husband." Based on this text his discourse was on the ceremony that had just taken place. He spoke of the grandeur of God's house, the emblem of the heavenly Jerusalem. The faithful, he said, had always devoted their temporal means, their labor, skill and genius to beautifying their temples, because they were the dwelling places of the Emmanuel God with us, in the hope that their sacrifices in adorning God's material temple would be rewarded by a place in the heavenly Jerusalem.

The ceremony of translating the relics of St. Benedict the martyr and St. Victoria took place in the afternoon. The relics of St. Benedict had been kept in St. Michael's church, the parish church in charge of the Passionists, on the hillside below the monastery; the relics of St. Victoria were at the monastery. The bones of the two saints were in glass caskets. St. Benedict's were carried in solemn procession from St. Michael's up the hill to the monastery. Four priests, clad in costly vestments, carried the relics of St. Benedict.

National Flag Carried.

In the van of the procession the national flag was carried and the religious societies of St. Michael's parish carried their banners. In the court of the monastery the procession from St. Michael's was met by a procession issuing from the monastery, with four priests carrying the relics of St. Victoria. The two processions united and to the music of a band entered the monastery church, four young men carrying the waxen image of St. Benedict and four girls bearing the wax figure of St. Victoria.

Under the altars of the Sacred Heart and of St. Paul of the Cross tombs have been prepared, and after the relics have been exposed for the veneration of the faithful for a certain period they will be placed in an iron box, which will be locked, and lowered into the vault, St. Benedict under the alter of the Sacred Heart and St. Victoria under the altar of St. Paul of the Cross. The services of the day closed with the solemn benediction.

The verification of the relics, the night before, was conducted privately by Bishop Shanahan, who was delegated by Bishop Phelan. The relics had come from Rome under the seal of the propaganda, preceded by documents describing the relics and the seal. These documents were turned over to Bishop Shanahan by the fathers at the monastery, and on Saturday night, clad in ceremonial robes, the bishop broke the seal of the caskets containing the relics, compared the seal and the contents with the description in the documents and then impressed his own seal on the caskets. Without this verification by the bishop the relics could not have been exposed for the veneration of the faithful.

WORSHIPED FOR THE LAST TIME IN OLD CHURCH

Central Presbyterian Edifice in Allegheny Is Abandoned.

SADNESS AT THE PARTING

The Rev. Dr. S. B. McCormick, President of Coe College, Told Congregation That Change of Location Furnishes Opportunity for Growth.

The congregation of the Central Presbyterian church worshiped yesterday for the last time in the old church edifice at Lacock and Anderson streets, Allegheny. There was an unusually large attendance, and addresses were made by the Rev. Dr. Samuel B. McCormick, president of Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Ia.

He was for seven years pastor of this church during one of the periods of its splendid prosperity. He spoke of the past of the church, and the opportunities of the present. He was followed by the Rev. Dr. Robinson, who recently retired from the faculty of the Western Theological seminary. Dr. Robinson had known personally every pastor of this church. He spoke with much feeling of the character and work of the splendid men who have served the church in the pastorate.

The third address was given by the Rev. J. Allison Platts, pastor of the church. He spoke of the things that were instrumental in making this change a forward movement. The services were then closed with prayer by Dr. McCormick.

Temporary Meeting Place.

The church will hereafter hold its prayer meetings in the chapel of the Western Theological seminary, Ridge avenue, Allegheny, and the Sunday services in Carnegie hall, until a site can be obtained and a new church built.

In his address, among other things, Dr. McCormick said: "This day is of course one of intense sadness. You bid farewell to the place where for nearly a half century, this congregation has been accustomed to worship. You may meet here for the last time. Your memories are busy, as you recall the experiences of joy and gentleness, of sorrow and of grief, which have been yours in the days gone.

"Your associations with this church home are sweet and tender, and it is not strange the feeling of sadness almost overpowers all the senses today.

"I should prefer, however, that you should make this farewell service one which will give you new inspirations and new hope for the future. It is always a critical time when a church is compelled to change locations. The crisis, however, may be made opportunity for larger growth and accomplishment. This may be true of you. The Central church has a splendid history. It was founded by the Rev. Dr. Plummer, one of the greatest preachers that our church has known, and it was founded in prayer. Dr. Orr took up the work laid down by Dr. Plummer, and his successors, Dr. George P. Hays, Mr. Gill and Dr. I. N. Hays were likewise men of power and accomplished great things here.

A Present Opportunity.

"When I became your pastor the outlook was discouraging and yet the church was so thoroughly united and so consecrated to the Lord's cause that you built it up to over 500 members under the pastorate of Dr. Skilling, which recently closed. You continued to grow and fill a large place in the church life of this city.

"Now again is your opportunity—an opportunity to rally about your pastor and put forth efforts in a new location, that will mean more splendid accomplishments than at any time in the past. The church of God is, perhaps, beginning to awake to an appreciation of its world-wide mission. What it has done is only a faint prophecy of what it will do. Its influence is increasing, its dominion is becoming world-wide.

"This congregation has now opportunity to put forth effort to occupy a place and to do a work that is never had before. Let there be no regret at leaving the present location, but let there be a determined purpose to accomplish in the days to come larger things for Christ and his church."

CORNER STONE OF EPIPHANY LAID

GREAT THRONG STOOD IN RAIN TO HOLD POINTS OF VANTAGE.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Richard Phelan Blessed the Stone and the Rev. Father William McMullen Told of Two New Churches for Old Cathedral.

The corner stone of the Catholic church of the Holy Epiphany was laid yesterday by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Richard Phelan. The church is in Washington street between Wylie and Fifth avenues. It will be the parish church of the congregation which has been worshiping many years at St. Paul's cathedral, the site of which has been purchased by H. C. Frick.

The hour for the ceremony had been set for 3 p. m., but long before that hour a crowd collected. A heavy rainstorm broke over the gathering, and although some sought shelter many remained during the rain on the vantage points they had gained by clambering upon lumber piles. By the time Bishop Phelan and the priests arrived the clouds had cleared away and a hot sun beamed down on the unshaded platform that had been laid from one foundation well to the other, covering the basement of the church.

The bishop and the priests came in carriages shortly after 3 o'clock, donned their robes in the little office of the contractor and then, marching two abreast, encircled the walls of the church. Here the procession paused, while a large wooden cross was blessed, and then, preceded by Bishop Phelan, went to the front of the church, where the corner stone hung suspended from a crane. The bishop blessed the stone amid the reciting of the psalms of David by the priests.

Contractor George F. Egan, assisted by M. C. Collins, spread the bed of mortar, and after a copper casket, containing coins, the church records and newspapers, had been placed, the stone was lowered to its permanent position. The Rev. Father William McMullen of Wilkinsburg preached the sermon. He spoke of the march of progress, that removed St. Paul's cathedral, whose two spires had long been a landmark, to make place for commercial buildings. It was sad to witness the demolition of an old church, but the church was not losing ground thereby, for as in this case, as in many other cases of the removal of downtown churches, the new ones were erected elsewhere.

The following priests were in attendance on Bishop Phelan: The Very Rev. S. L. Tobin, the Very Rev. E. A. Bush, the Revs. Regis Canevin, William Kittell, Thomas Devlin, L. A. O'Connell, F. Sweeney, Martin Ryan, Raphael Korkenas and Father Berthold, O. C. C., Fathers Anacletus, Liste, Raphael, O. F. M., and Father Wernert of the Redemptorists.

WARNS CHRISTIANS AGAINST DRIFTING

The Rev. J. W. Kerns Tells Congregation to Keep "Rowing Against the Stream."

In the First Christian church, Allegheny, yesterday the Rev. W. Kerns preached on "Letting Things Slip." His text was, Hebrews ii:1, "Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip." Mr. Kerns said in part:

"The rendering of the revisal version is preferable here. It is a more exact translation of the Greek term. The figure is that of a ship, slipping off the cables, and drifting away from her moorings. The Hebrew Christians were drifting toward Judaism, back to the system from which they had come out. The writer is anxious to warn them of something which might happen to them before they were aware. He is not so much afraid of their positively rejecting the great salvation as of their neglecting it. In consequence of their yielding to other influences, or of their being preoccupied with other matters. Hence they are urged to 'give earnest heed to the things which they have heard, lest they should drift away from them.'

"It is never the deliberate intention of any one to drift away from God and become a derelict on the stream of life. Where one definitely casts off his religious faith there are a thousand who drift from it. A man may drift from God so slowly and gently that he is really unaware of it until he glances back over years. Nor can he by one tremendous struggle place himself beyond the reach of this danger. As the boatman, rowing up the river, must continue the strokes of his oars to prevent his drifting backward, so the Christian must give constant 'heed' to all the divinely appointed means to secure his ascent.

"It is easy to drift but it requires effort to row. The moment we fold our arms that moment we begin to drift away. The wonderful knowledge which Christ had of human weakness is shown by His repeated exhortations to vigilance and prayerfulness."

MYSTERY HANGS OVER DEATH OF COLORED MAN

Body of Patrick Thompson Was Found Lying in Jones Avenue.

PROBABLY A MURDER

Physicians Think He Died from Internal Injuries—Body Shows Signs of Violence—Two Men Seen to Knock Him Down Before Death.

The Pittsburgh police have another murder mystery to solve. Early Sunday morning Patrick Thompson, colored, a well-known musician in the Wylie avenue district, was found dead in Jones avenue, at the head of Twenty-sixth street. No one was found yesterday who knew anything of his mysterious end. He was seen about 20 minutes before he was found by a woman, who saw two colored men knock him down. He fell into the street, and after a few minutes got up and staggered away. Later he was found dead by George Stall of No. 264 Jones avenue, Edward Murphy, No. 50 Jones avenue, and James Woods of No. 54 Jones avenue. It is believed he was injured by the fall he received, but the real cause will be determined today, when the post-mortem examination is held by Coroner's Physician Walter E. McCandless.

Thompson was about 50 years old and lived in Wylie avenue near Fulton street. He was a free and easy sort of a character and made his living by playing for dances among his people. During the last few years he has been in feeble health. On account of his illness he was incapacitated for making a living and he was forced to beg among his people.

Two Men Struck Him.

Many of the colored people in Wylie avenue disliked him on account of continually begging. Saturday afternoon he went to the Mercy hospital, said that he was ill and asked to be admitted to the infirmary. The physicians there pronounced his illness incurable and gave him some medicine and he went away.

He went from that infirmary to the West Penn hospital, where he was refused admittance for the same reason. He was given a prescription and left. He remained in the vicinity of Twenty-eighth street and Penn avenue until after dark. Then he went up in Jones avenue.

Thompson went about this street begging from his people.

Shortly before midnight Mrs. Ella Hayers of Jones avenue saw two colored men, whom she did not recognize, knock him down in the street. The two men walked away and later Mrs. Ella Hayers saw him get up and limp away.

She did not pay any more attention to him. Mrs. Hayers closed the door and went into the house. Twenty minutes afterward Thompson was found dead about 100 feet from that place.

Body Discovered.

Stall, Murphy and Woods were walking to their homes and saw a man lying on the side of the hill. From the manner in which he was found he had evidently had a sudden and violent death, as he had fallen forward.

He was lying with his arms outstretched and his face to the ground. Police Officers John Beal and John Battleaxe were summoned by the three boys. His body was still warm and the officers sent word to No. 3 police station and Thompson was taken to the West Penn hospital in a patrol wagon.

When the body arrived there Thompson was dead. The remains were then taken to the morgue. It is believed that his death was caused by some internal injury. The physicians at the hospital made a brief examination of his body and said that his death was in no way caused by his disease.

A large bruise was found on the back of his head, probably caused when his head struck the street when knocked down by the two colored men. There were also slight traces of a hemorrhage from the mouth caused by internal injuries.

The police in Penn avenue are looking for his colored assailants. Deputy Coroner George Mercer is working on the case but was unable to find the two men.

KEPT THE POLICE BUSY.

Attempted Murder and the Suicide of Michael Murtechock Followed by Another Attempt at Suicide.

As a result of Michael Murtchock's attempt to murder Mrs. Andrew Matzko in McKeesport Saturday night, which was followed by his own suicide, the McKeesport police were kept busy until daylight yesterday morning in the vicinity of the Matzko house.

Mrs. Matzko, who had her throat and cheek cut, will probably recover from her wounds. At the McKeesport hospital last night she said that when she returned from a butcher shop Saturday evening, she found Murtchock alone in the house. He asked her to elope with him and when she refused he attacked her with a razor.

Early yesterday morning as a result of the trouble in the Matzko house, John Marko, 35 years old, tried to commit suicide by throwing himself into the river. His act was seen by Samuel O'Toole, who notified the police and Marko was pulled out of the water and locked up. He explained his act by saying Murtchock was an intimate friend of his, and as he was dead, he, too, might as well be dead.

During Sunday morning the McKeesport police were frequently called upon by residents in the neighborhood of the Matzko house, who said they saw a ghost there and wanted it driven away.

Lord Derby and The Abbot Are to Race Thursday

SPECIAL RACES MARK THE MEET AT BRIGHTON

Trot Between Lord Derby and The Abbot Will Be the Feature.

BIG EVENT THURSDAY

Much Speculation Rife as to the Real Form of The Abbot, but It Is Believed Geers Has Son of Chimes in Good Shape.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Aug. 10.—The second annual seaside meeting of the New York Trotting association (grand circuit) will be inaugurated at the Brighton Beach track tomorrow afternoon. The meet will run for six days, and, judging by the program, which has been carefully arranged by Secretary C. A. McCully, will make turf history.

Two special events are announced which promise sport such as has only been seen in or around New York since the New York Trotting association came into existence with its well-remembered meeting of 1901. On Thursday next The Abbot, 2:03¼, the champion trotting gelding, will meet Lord Derby, 2:06½, in a special match race for a purse of $10,000.

This race has been looked upon ever since it was arranged last winter as the event of the trotting season, and recent developments have only tended to strengthen this view.

On Saturday, August 2, Lord Derby met and defeated Boralma, 2:07, at Charter Oak park, Hartford, Conn., in four heats in 2:08, 2:09¼, 2:18¾ and 2:24. Lord Derby was as sound as a fiddle after the race, and it is a certainty that the Mambrino King gelding will be ready to trot the race of his life against The Abbot next Thursday.

The Abbot has not been seen here this season, but it is known that Geers has the son of Chimes and Nettie King in shape. Geers will drive The Abbot on Thursday and Spear will sit in Lord Derby's sulky. Racegoers will remember the plucky race which The Abbot put up against the mighty Cresceus at Brighton Beach last year.

Lord Derby will be forced to go a faster and better race than he did at either Cleveland or Hartford if he succeeds in beating The Abbot. The race with both horses fit, and Lord Derby on his good behavior, should, no doubt will, be a great race, and will also show the true form of the two horses.

Lord Derby has not so far this season shown true championship form, and unless he proves in the Brighton Beach race that he has improved greatly since last season, there is not a possible chance of him equaling the records of either Cresceus or The Abbot.

Mr. Geers has on several occasions this season said that he believed The Abbot would lower his present record of 2:03¼, and his showing in the coming race will give the racing public the first opportunity to judge of his condition. The race on paper looks to be at the mercy of The Abbot, but Lord Derby may succeed in lowering the color of the fast son of Chimes.

The second special event of the week is down for Saturday. Dan Patch, 2:00¾, the son of Joe Patchen, will be sent a mile against time to beat the record of Star Pointer, 1:59¼, which has stood so long as the low mark among the free-for-all pacers. It was on August 2, at Columbus, that Dan Patch, the undefeated pacing stallion, lowered the record of his illustrious sire and took his mark of 2:00¾. McHenry drove the brown whirlwind and the same clever driver will hold the reins when Dan Patch gets the word at Brighton Beach next Saturday. Many turfmen think the great stallion will go below the two-minute mark on the seaside course.

The feature of the opening day will be the first renewal of the Bonner Memorial purse, 2:12 class, trotting, best three in five heats, for a purse of $10,000. Onward Silver, driven by Geers, won the inaugural race last year, from a fast field in five heats.

The 2:15 class pace, three heats (novelty), purse $1,500, the 2:05 class, pacing, three heats in five, purse $1,500, and the 2:14 class, trotting, three heats (novelty), purse $1,500, complete the first day's program. The entries for the Bonner Memorial include such fast ones as Dan T., Improvidence, Leola, Thisbe, Major Delmar and Rythmic.

The Metropolitan, 2:20 class, pacing, three in five, for a purse of $5,000, is the feature of the second day. Direct Hal, Gold Brick, Thornway, Easter, Elastic Pointer, Greenline and Grasshopper are among the nominations. The other events are the 2:24 class, trotting, three in five, purse $1,500; the 2:18 class, trotting, three heats (novelty), purse $1,000, and the Horse Review, 3-year-olds, pacing, three in five, for a purse of $1,000.

On Wednesday, the third day, two $5,000 events are down for decision. They are the Hiram Woodruff, 2:20 class, trotting, three in five, and the Horse Review, 3-year-olds, trotting, three in five. Among the eligibles for the former are Baron Dillon, Jr., Col. Wilkes, Daisy Wood, Joan of Arc, Guy Fortune, Patchen Maid, Wentworth, John Patterson and a number of other good ones. The third event of the day's card is the 2:08 class pacing, three heats (novelty), purse $1,500.

On Thursday, in addition to the Lord Derby, The Abbot match race, are down for decision the Brighton, 2:10 class, pacing, three in five, for a purse of $5,000; the 2:10 class, trotting, three heats (novelty), purse $1,500, and the 2:24 class, pacing, three heats (novelty), purse $1,500. Among the entries for the Brighton are Dandy Chimes, Daphne Dallas, Dick Sea, Don Derby, Joe Pointer, Nathan Straus, Onoto, Star Puga and Terrill S.

On Friday the stake feature is the John H. Shults, 2:25 class, trotting, 4-year-olds, three in five, for a purse of $5,000. Seven nominations are announced and the field will be made up from Bell Sligo, Directum Spier, Hallie Hardin, Horace W. Wilson, Maxine, Prince Caton and Zephyr. Two other events fill out the card. They are the 2:04 class, pacing, three heats (novelty), purse $1,500, and the 2:16 class, trotting, three heats (novelty), purse $1,500. In the 2:04 class pace the entries are Aurubon Boy, Connor, Dan Patch, Fannie Dillard, Fred S. Wedgewood, Hal B, Indiana and Shadow Chimes.

Only two events are announced for Saturday in addition to the attempt of Dan Patch to beat 1:59¼, the pacing record. One is the 2:12 class, trotting, and the other the 2:07 class, trotting. In the latter event are carded such flyers as Anzella, Chain Shot, Dolly Dillon, Kingmond and The Monk. Amokin, Carl Wilkes, Prince Direct, Pinchem Wilkes, Quarterstake, St. Riga and Wilkie Redbuck and Star Hal are among the nominations for the 2:12 pace. Racing will begin each day at 2 p. m.

FANS ARE GLAD BRUSH IS OUT

NEW OWNERS OF TEAM TO HAVE A WINNER AT ANY COST.

Every Member of the New Syndicate Is a Thorough Sportsman and All Are Great Lovers of the National Game of Baseball.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 10.—Cincinnati lovers of baseball are delighted with the change in ownership of the National league team in this city, because it is now in the hands of real sportsmen and true devotees of the national game.

At least, the country cannot produce two more thorough lovers of the game than the Fleischmanns—Julius, the mayor of Cincinnati, and Max, his brother. Not only have they had a string of horses, but at their summer home in the mountains of New York state they have had their own baseball team and ball park.

For several years they have employed young college men to make up a good team, and a couple of seasons ago these boys went through the season, including a long trip, with only two or three defeats to their discredit, although they played some very strong semi-professional teams in various parts of the country from this city to their New York state home.

Max Fleischmann was manager of the team and one of the players. It was far from a money making scheme, as the Fleischmann brothers have sufficient of this world's goods to put the question of making more of the board. Max is a first rate infielder for an amateur, and there are some spots in the National league he might help by his presence.

The other members of the new company are mainly politicians, yet they are lovers of sport, and they will give Cincinnati a run for her money in a baseball way. It is very much different from the old Brush regime, when it was wholly a case of money grabbing, and it was seldom that the Indianapolis clothier saw his team play.

It is practically a certainty that Geo. B. Cox, August Herrman and their partners will do their best to give the city a real ball team in place of the misfits that have come out of the Indianapolis tailor shop for so many years.

They are in politics, and a man cannot very well stand well in politics and run a bunco game on the sport-loving public. Cincinnati is a good ball town, and there is money to be made here if a liberal policy is followed.

The large attendance at the opening of each season, when promises are always strong, proves this, and the new owners know that they must make good with a team to make money.

They have been among the grumblers at the old way of doing things, and now that they have the opportunity to do something themselves to relieve the situation, no one doubts that they will come to the front with the necessary money.

Happy Jack Chesbro took his turn at the slab in Saturday's game against Philadelphia, and succeeded in shutting out the Quakers by the score of 1 to 0. Two hits in the fifth inning were responsible for the champions' only score, which proved to be the winner.

Beaumont made some hair-raising catches in middle field, while the work of Leach, at third, was of brilliant order. Conroy played a nice game at short and made several pretty pick-ups and throws to first. Clay, the Phillies' new outfielder, showed up well in the game.

Homestead Boy Lets the West Side Athletic Club Down Without a Hit.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 10.—The St. Louis National league team played an exhibition game with the West Side A. C. nine at Bayonne today and shut out the Jerseymen, the score being 7 to 0.

The game was called on account of rain at the end of the sixth inning. None of the local players could find Pearson's benders, while the visitors got 12 safe hits off Murphy, who has a local reputation as a good pitcher. The fielding of the Jersey players was very poor, while that of the western players was full of snap. Score by innings:

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—The champions had an off day yesterday, and it was spent very pleasantly. Many of the members of the team took a night train for Atlantic City after the game Saturday and enjoyed a dip in the surf.

They will all return to Philadelphia this afternoon for the last game of the series with the Phillies, which Manager Clarke hopes to win. Phillippa or Leever may be sent on the firing line this afternoon, and either White or Ibeng will do the twirling for Shettsline's team.

After the game today the champions leave for Boston, where they open a series of four games tomorrow. These games will probably be the hardest on the eastern trip, and the Pirates will have to hustle to take the majority of the series from the Beaneaters.

Doheny will possibly pitch the opening game of the series against Boston. He was allowed to leave Philadelphia last week for a visit to his family in Boston, and will report to Manager Clarke when the champions arrive there.

The team will not arrive home before Sunday. One game has been scheduled with the Atlantic City team the latter part of this week, and the Pittsburghers at the shore will have an opportunity to go to Inlet park and boast of their champion team.

YOUNG CORBETT IS IN FINE CONDITION

He Is Training in Private for His Championship Battle With Terry McGovern.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARTFORD, CONN., Aug. 10.—Young Corbett is doing his sparring in private at his headquarters in Unionville. While the townsmen are welcomed to his camp on the banks of the Farmingham river, where he does considerable training, no one but his own staff is permitted in Grand Army hall, where he puts on the gloves with Willie Fitzgerald and Frank Newhouse. He is already in fine condition.

There was some doubt at first as to whether the townspeople would like to have a champion pugilist around, but the quiet demeanor and gentlemanly conduct of the Denver lad has made him many friends.

The girls in the village flock to his camp to see him at work, and they keep his seat in the dining room of the Unionville House well supplied with bouquets.

Corbett has consented to appear at an entertainment next week and spar for a local charity. He is working hard every day, and the improvement he shows in footwork and quickness is wonderful.

When Terry McGovern read a statement that a judge of the superior court might issue an injunction restraining him and Young Corbett from boxing August 29 in New London, he said—

"I am not worrying about that. I guess Manager Rowley knows what he is doing. All I have to do is to get ready to fight. It is up to me to get the decision from Young Corbett. It is up to the club to pull off the bout.

"I don't understand how it is that a few persons who may be opposed to boxing can stop an exhibition after the city government of New London has granted the permit and the mayor has said that no one shall interfere."

Weekly Review of Market Quotations

PITTSBURGH PRICES FOR FARM PRODUCTS

Grain Situation Unrelieved. Oats Very Scarce---Decline in Ham Quotations.

It is difficult to correctly summarize the grain situation as it presented itself at the close of the week, inasmuch as local dealers were entirely at sea as to actual values, because arrivals of stock could not be depended upon with any degree of accuracy. Conditions through the west would warrant lower prices for both oats and corn if there was any way of getting the stock here, but so serious is the congestion on the railroads that there is probability of their having to refuse to accept further grain consignments until the congestion is relieved. They frankly state that they have not sufficient equipment, either in the way of tracks or motive power, to handle the freight offered for transportation. Yards at Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Columbus are crowded with cars awaiting removal, and all available engines have been sent out to move them. The first train brought from the west will be taken on to points east of Pittsburgh, and local dealers fear there will be no relief to the situation here before the first of next month. As it is, quotations on oats are merely nominal, as broken all have wanted them, and no one has shown a difference from the preceding one. Oats sold out of elevators Saturday morning at 70 cents.

Cereal Foods Are Affected.

Wheat has been weaker and flour prices are lower than they were a week ago. Cereal foods are also affected, and have started down, although this action is based upon the result of crop yields and not the present local conditions surrounding grain.

Standard package coffee advanced a half-cent per pound during the week, while sugar remained unchanged. Syrups and molasses are somewhat easier, and prices have declined five cents a bushel. Canned goods and dried fruits are without special feature.

There has been little change in the potato situation since last Monday, except for a slight weakening in all prices but for the fanciest stock. Plenty of potatoes are reaching market, and nearly stock has become quite a factor in this staple, which does not appear to be with free offerings. Cucumbers are lower. Sweet potatoes are now regular arrivals, and are steady at quotations. Fresh tomatoes, both home grown and shipped, are cheaper, with supplies increasing, although growers report nearby tomatoes as backward and slow in ripening. Green corn was lower all week until Saturday, when it reacted and went back to quotations of last Monday. String beans are higher.

Watermelons and cantaloupes show little change. Arrivals of the latter have been very free, but a brisk demand has held prices steady. Peaches, however, are lower, and the bull closed the week lower than they were at the opening. Delaware peaches are now coming in freely. Blackberries advanced several days ago, and reached on Saturday under the influence of larger receipts. Huckleberries are steady and unchanged and elderberries have commenced to arrive.

California Fruits Advanced.

Messina lemons, California peaches and California plums have advanced, while California pears have declined. Oranges and bananas are holding their own without difference in price.

Butter remained unchanged last Monday, and is arriving in plentiful supplies, the local market being inclined toward weakness, with trade slow (steady). Eggs went off a few days ago on account of light demand, buyers being afraid to purchase heavily during warm weather. Reports are of firmer markets in the west, however, and this may affect the local situation at any time.

There is little change in the poultry market, although spring chickens are in better supply and a trifle lower.

A decline of a half cent was made in quotations for hams on Saturday.

ALL STOCK EXCHANGES WERE CLOSED.

All the stock exchanges in the country were closed Saturday, but the banks, trust companies, grain and produce exchanges remained open for business as usual. The occasion of closing the stock exchanges was King Edward's coronation. Many of the local brokers took advantage of the holiday to get a rest in the mountains and at the seashore, and but little, if any, effort was made to transact business. The exchanges will resume at the accustomed hours tomorrow morning.

GAINED ALL AROUND.

Money Getting Easier and Pittsburgh Bank Exchanges Break Last Year's Records.

Pittsburgh bank exchanges for yesterday were nearly $560,000 larger than those for the same day last year, the total for the week broke all previous records and any similar week by showing an increase over the same period a year ago of more than $8,661,000, and the total for the year to date was more than $3,-540,000 larger than at the same time in 1901. Thus there were gratifying gains all around, compared with the record-breaking figures of a year ago. Compared with the preceding week, however, there was a slight decrease in yesterday's exchanges, decreasing about $1,100,000, and the week's approximately $2,000,000. The local money market is getting easier, and during the week several institutions were seeking loans at 5@6 per cent. Some lower, were closely loaned up. The general tone shows distinct improvement. The rate for call and time loans remains unchanged at 5@6 per cent.

A. C. STEIN, Attorney-at-Law, Fifth avenue and Ross street, Pittsburgh, Pa. In the court of common pleas No. 2 of Allegheny county, No. 191, term, 1902. In re petition of Anna McClure Shirley for satisfaction of mortgage, recorded in Mortgage Book, 55, page, 214.

To the Honorable, the petition of Anna McClure Shirley respectfully represents: That on the 7th day of March, 1859, John McKenna and his wife, Rebecca, were seized in fee by deed of Samuel Greer, executor of the estate of Mary Reed, deceased, recorded in recorder's office of Allegheny county, in Deed Book, 857, page 67, all that certain lot or piece of ground situate in the city of Pittsburgh, county of Allegheny and state of Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Being part of lot No. 1 in Whitesides plan, having a front of twenty-five (25) feet on Peach alley, and extending toward Mulberry street seventy-five (75) feet, being the southwest corner of Peach alley and Mulberry street.

That on said date the said John McKenna and Rebecca, his wife, executed and delivered a purchase money mortgage to the said Samuel Greer, executor of the estate of Mary Reed, deceased, for the said lot of ground, which mortgage was conditioned for the payment of the sum of four hundred forty-nine dollars and seventy-four cents ($449.74), in the manner following, to wit: $125 on March 7, 1861; $100 on March 7, 1862; $100 on March 7, 1863, and the balance of $124.74 on March 7, 1864, with lawful interest thereon, which said mortgage is on record in the recorder's office of Allegheny county, in Mortgage Book 55, page 214.

That by virtue of sundry conveyances and assurances in the law, the title of said lot of ground became vested in petitioner in fee, and default having been made in payment of said mortgage within 21 years prior to the date of this petition, by the present owner of said lot (your petitioner), as far as can be ascertained, by the predecessors in title, now has the same, so far as is known, been recognized in any manner whatever within said period of 21 years.

That said mortgage has not been assigned, released or otherwise discharged of record. Your petitioner knows of no person or persons now or hereafter entitled to said mortgage as the said Samuel Greer, executor, etc., mortgagee, has long been dead.

That the heirs of the said Mary Reed and the beneficiaries under her will were her children, Robert Reed, Frederick Reed and Rebecca Reed, children of a deceased son, Thomas Reed. That said Rebecca Reed, one of the heir beneficiaries afterward intermarried with John McKenna, and are the mortgagors named in said unsatisfied mortgage, recorded in Mortgage Book 55, page 214. Your petitioner is the daughter of the said John and Rebecca McKenna. Your petitioner does not know the residences, if they are still living, of any of said heirs of Mary Reed. That there has been no assignment of record of said mortgage, or of the interest thereon. Wherefore, your petitioner prays your honorable court to make a decree, after proper notice of these proceedings, shall have been given, as required by law, directing that the lot of ground described in said mortgage herein recited, shall be released and fully discharged from the lien of said mortgage and the payment thereof, according to the provision of an act of assembly, approved the 8th day of May, 1895, and she will ever pray, etc.

And now, to wit, 16th July, 1902, it being made known that I, William C. McKinley, sheriff of Allegheny county, Pa., do hereby give public notice requiring all persons interested in said mortgage to appear in said court on Saturday, August 16th, 1902, at 10 o'clock a. m., to answer said petition, and to show cause why the proper decree should not be granted and the said mortgage satisfied of record.

ENJOYING EVERY MOMENT

Each Day Adds to Store of Pleasure for Western Pennsylvania Tourists in Europe—Tribute in Rhyme to Herr Schinko, the Conductor.

By L. W. STRAYER.

(Special Correspondence to The Gazette.)

Interlaken, July 30.—On the train coming from Lucerne today this question was propounded to each of the 27 teachers in The Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph European tour:

"What do you consider the most attractive feature of the tour up to date?"

There was a diversity of answers, but the two favorites were the trip up the Rhine and the Alps. These two features were seen by the teachers under the most favorable auspices. Bright, sunny weather, comfortable accommodations and congenial companionship. For these reasons they made a more lasting impression upon the Western Pennsylvania tourists than they would under less auspicious circumstances. They are enjoying every moment of the time and below are given their expressions as to the best features of the tour up to date:

Mr. B. A. Pollock—The Rhine, with its beautiful scenery, its ancient castles and the legends connected therewith, has been the most fascinating part of our trip.

Mr. J. W. Anthony—England is the most interesting place in Europe, because of its historical points, and American history is so closely allied with that of England that to the teacher it is of special interest.

Miss Florence L. Gettner—The trip from Lucerne to the Rigi on Lake Lucerne held more attractions for me than any other part of the tour thus far.

Miss Alma Arnd—The cloud-capped, verdure-crowned Rigi, with the blue lakes lying at its base, presented to me the most attractive natural effect.

Mr. Charles E. Carter—For scenic and historic attractiveness I regard the trip from Cologne to Mayence as the grandest.

Famous Old Churchyard.

Miss Bertha J. Tiegel—The trip to Stoke Poges and the churchyard where Gray wrote his famous elegy was to me highly interesting; but as for beauty, the excursion up Lake Lucerne was incomparable.

Miss Emma Campbell—The trip up the Rhine has been the best feature of the tour up to date. There, we had not only magnificent scenery, but the delights of the romance associated with the castles.

Miss Anna S. Keener—Lucerne and the view from the Rigi are my choice.

Miss Lulu Findley—Our visits to London tower and to Windsor castle were to me the best features of the tour.

Miss Eva L. Fielding—I consider the Rhine and the Alps the best attractions of our itinerary to date.

Miss Clara Smith—I find it impossible to decide between the beauties of the Rhine and Warwick castle.

Miss Mary C. Greves—The Rigi and the Rhine.

Miss Edith J. Latshaw—The Alps first and then the Rhine are my choice.

Miss Eva Hamilton—The trip up the Rhine and the ascent of the Rigi are memories which will delight us through life.

Miss Edna Klein—My vote is for the Alps.

Miss Sadie A. M. Walker—My first choice is the trip to Lucerne and up the Rigi; my second the Rhine, and my third, London.

Rigi Is the Star.

Miss Anna C. Lecky—

Of all the beautiful places
We have visited thus far,
'Tis not Brussels with its laces,
Nor cathedrals of many graces,
But the visit of the Rigi is the star.

Mrs. M. B. Redman—Could I compress into a single sentence all the exclamations and thoughts of our party it would be, "How lovely is the earth and how glorious is life to be capped by the beauty of Lucerne and the Rigi mountain."

Mr. G. G. Herzog—The trip up Lake Lucerne and the ascent of the Rigi, with its wild and picturesque scenery, surpasses any other of the many wonderful things we have looked upon since our tour began.

Miss Semmelrock—My choice is divided between the Rhine scenery and the Alps.

Miss Mary E. Steele—There are three features that have especially impressed me, first Lucerne and the Rigi; second, the trip up the Rhine, and third, London.

Mr. R. M. Cargo—For scenic effect and historic significance, the Rhine surpassed anything I have yet seen.

Misses Stone, Lacock, Ferguson, Wachob and Linton collaborated and produced the following tribute to Herr George Schinko, the conductor of the party—

There is a dear man named Herr Schinko,
At ne'er a sweet girl would he wink—oh!
Our conductor is he;
Ne'er a better could be,
For there's only one guide, and that's Schinko.

Of language he speaks a lingo;
And of luggage there is a great string—oh!
But there's ne'er a mistake,
Such care does he take;
So the best thing of all is Herr Schinko.

AMERICAN MADMAN IN AN AUTOMOBILE

Rides Into London Hotel Court and Proclaims He Had Just Run Down from Heaven.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—D. H. Fanning of New York, a cabin passenger on the North German Lloyd steamer Frederich der Frosse, which reached Southampton yesterday from New York, July 31, arrived in London yesterday and was taken to St. Giles infirmary this afternoon under the wandering lunatic act.

Mr. Fanning startled the guests who chowded the court yard of the Hotel Cecil at noon today by driving into the court in an automobile and declaring he was the Saviour and had just come from heaven on his machine. He insisted upon shaking hands with all the guests present, until he was finally taken to his room by the hotel porters.

Mr. Fanning developed a mania on the Friederich der Grosse on the way over here. On the ship he declared he owned all the yachts in the world. This morning he started in an automobile back to the railroad station, saying he was going to run down and kill all the pedestrains he met on the way. He fell in with and picked up an English lance correspondent, with whom he drove to the Hotel Cecil.

Mr. Fanning was known to have a large sum of money in his pocketbook when he arrived in London. He threw this money about the streets, and returned to the hotel penniless.

Boy Victim of Whisky Barrel.

CUMBERLAND, MD., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—Luther Stenger, aged 11, of Williamsport, was probably fatally injured by the explosion of a whisky barrel. The barrel was in a barn where a number of boys were playing. One dropped a lighted match into the barrel. The head of the barrel struck young Stenger in the face.

JEANNETTE READY FOR THE FIREMEN

GREAT TIME PROMISED WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA VOLUNTEERS.

Street Fair and Midway Side Issues. Opens Tuesday and Closes Friday With Races for Prizes—Town Bedecked With Flags.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

JEANNETTE, PA., Aug. 10.—Jeannette is ready and looking its best for the convention of the Volunteer Firemen's association of Western Pennsylvania, which opens Tuesday. The town is decorated on a lavish scale. Clay avenue has numerous arches, while almost every business building is covered with a profusion of flags and bunting.

While the occasion is the meeting of the firemen of this part of the state, the people of the town have gone a step farther and are combining with it a street carnival. There will be all sorts of attractions, including some midway features.

The report has got out that Jeannette will be wide open during the week. It has been said that the police force will take a vacation and the lockup key will be put in a safe deposit vault. Burgess Bethune says this is a joke. Everyone coming may have a good time, but must keep within bounds.

From advices on hand, 58 towns will be represented by fire companies, and most of them are expected here by Tuesday evening. The reception of delegates and sight-seeers is the only feature on the program for Monday afternoon and evening. Tuesday there will be a short business session at Turner's hall and at 2 p. m. Burgess Bethune will present the key of the town to the delegates. On Wednesday the business session of the organization will take place. In the evening there will be a trolley ride to Oakwood park, where a firemen's ball will take place. Thursday morning there will be an exhibition of fire apparatus and in the afternoon a street parade.

The most interesting feature of the convention will be the races on Friday. There will be a service race, with $100 in prizes; several hose races with prizes running up to $200; ladder races and hub and hub races. A hose race for $150 will close the day's sport.

RAIN FAILED TO KEEP CROWDS FROM PARKS

Attractions at Trolley Parks Drew the People Despite the Storms of Yesterday.

Despite yesterday's showers there was a large attendance at the traction parks. While it rained hard in Pittsburgh, the rainfall at some of the parks amounted to scarcely more than a sprinkle. The ample protection provided at all the parks saved the greater portion of the crowds from being seriously discommoded by the storm, and the entertainments offered were not interfered with in the least.

At Calhoun park the Kilties' band of Toronto closed its local engagement. Over 15,000 people attended, afternoon and evening, and bade farewell to the Scots. In the evening the Kilties' choir sang, "The Star-Spangled Banner," the large audience enthusiastically joining in the chorus.

At Kennywood park Roccreto's Concert band and John J. Hall, character soloist, were the attractions. Two good concerts were given. At Southern park the Banda Italia and Mlle. Zeno drew a large crowd. In honor of his first appearance hereabout, Conductor Natalina, composed a new march, "Citizens of the Greater Pittsburgh," which was well played. Zeno made a successful ascension and descended in a field more than a mile away. At Oakwood the Second Brigade band gave two good concerts.

All this week Dumont's minstrels will hold forth at Kennywood, afternoon and evening. It will be the last week of the Philadelphia stock company. At Southern park there will be a high-class vaudeville show, evenings only. The entertainers are headed by Letto & Dillo, comedy acrobats, with their funny trick house. Others on the bill are W. H. Maddock, swinging wire equilibrist; Avaondale Munn, impersonator and Marjorie Barrett, a child artist.

HIBERNIANS FLAG DAY.

Division No 4. Had Boat Excursion And Banquet Yesterday.

Division No. 4, Ancient Order of Hibernians, celebrated yesterday as flag day and held a big excursion on the steamer Beauty, which took the members and friends of the order to Monongahela City and return. The division, which is one of the largest and most prominent in Allegheny county, has many friends, who with the members of the division spent a merry day on the river. At Monongahela City the women friends of the division served the guests on the boat with a banquet, with Thomas L. Dillon toastmaster.

On the trip up the river Attorney James Francis Burke, on behalf of the women, presented Division No. 4 with two pretty flags. The flags, an American and the green flag of Ireland, were accepted on behalf of the division by Cornelius Horgan, president of the division.

The music on the trip was furnished by the Cathedral orchestra, which rendered American and Irish airs. There was also an excellent program of specialty performers, headed by Prof E. J. Carney, who recited "Emmett's Speech in the Dock," and "Shamus O'Brien." Johnny O'Brien, the well-known flute player, amused the old timers by playing a number of Irish airs.

On the trip up the steamer stopped at Homestead, Braddock and McKeesport to take aboard the members and friends of the division from these towns. The excursion was one of the most successful ever held by the order in this section, and was attended by a number of prominent men from the two cities. From now on the prominent members of the order in Western Pennsylvania intend to make social features the leading part in their celebrations, and the various divisions of the order will hold outings.

The committee which had charge of the celebration consisted of E. E. Carroll, chairman; John Powers, secretary-treasurer; James McVerry, M. J. Dempsey, David Quinlan and Michael Abbott.

STONE AFRAID RING WILL LOSE LOTS OF VOTES

Eager to Suppress Pennypacker's Name from Top of Citizens Column.

HE WANTS TO SEE ELKINS

In Attorney-General's Absence Secretary Griest Is Not Willing to Run the Risk of Mandamus Suit. Papers Not Yet Received.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 10.—Attorney General Elkin is still hunting and fishing in Canada with a party of Mercer county friends, and he is not expected back at his office on Capitol hill before Tuesday night at the earliest. Gov. Stone is desirous that Elkin shall return so that he may consult with him as to what action shall be taken to prevent the names of the Republican state nominees from appearing at the head of the Citizens column on the official ballot.

Stone is afraid that if the Citizens party in Allegheny county is allowed to get their county ticket on the ballot in the same column with Judge Pennypacker and his associates, it will mean the loss of thousands of votes to the regular Republican local ticket in that county, in which he is specially interested. The nomination papers of the Citizens party nominating the Republican state candidates have not yet been received at the state department and until they are presented for filing nothing can be done in the matter.

Should the papers appear regular upon their face, Secretary Griest is required to accept and file them, and then it will be up to Stone and his friends to prevent the certification of the nominations if they can. Griest is not likely to take the responsibility of refusing to certify them and thereby subject himself to being made the defendant in a mandamus proceeding to compel their certification.

Should the court overrule any objections which Stone and his adherents might file in the Dauphin county court to the validity of the nomination papers, there is nothing to prevent the names of Judge Pennypacker and his associates from appearing on the ballot in the same column with the Citizens party local ticket in Allegheny county, which is already on file in the state department.

Attempt will be made by the Democratic state executive committee and the state campaign committee at their meetings at state headquarters in this city on Tuesday to adjust the differences between Congressman Henry D. Green of Reading and Marcus C. L. Kline of Allentown, the rival Democratic nominees for congress in the Berks-Lehigh district. This is the strongest Democratic congressional district in the state, but unless the differences between the Democrats of the two counties is adjusted there is danger of the election of a Republican congressman for the first time in its history.

CALIFORNIA ROBBER EMULATES TRACY

Shoots Himself to Escape Capture When Wounded After Series of Daring Hold Ups.

SAN JOSE, CAL., Aug. 10.—A series of daring highway robberies, which resulted in the sensational death of one of the robbers, occurred on the Monterare road last night.

Two young men near Edenvale compelled a woman to give up her horse and buggy. They then drove to E. F. Hepies' store at Coyote, where they purchased cartridges. Then proceeded to hold up the proprietor and several bystanders. Near Gilroy they met W. W. McKee, and fired at him, inflicting a trifling wound. McKee lashed his horse into a run and escaped.

The robbers continued south, robbing two or three teamsters. They were just entering Stevens' store when they saw a posse consisting of E. F. Hepies and the men robbed in his store coming after them.

The robbers abandoned their horses and started across a field. A running fight ensued, in which one of the robbers was shot through the stomach. He placed his pistol to his head and blew out his brains. The other was captured.

JOSEPH HORNE CO.

August is a month of rare opportunities in buying. And this store, with its great possibilities, is a splendid place to study the saving side of shopping.

A Series of Special Sales This Week, The First Beginning Today.

At the outset we must tell you one thing: New Fall and Winter goods are crowding in upon us fast, and we must give them all the room they require. To gain this coveted room we have no regard for the prices that Summer goods formerly sold for. As little as we can get for them is all we ask. You are helping us to riddance of summery stuffs just splendidly.

Very few people are obliged to buy now. We recognize that. And the magnificent custom now coming to this store is all the more remarkable on that very account.

Thrifty people will buy when lowest prices obtain.

The following news this Monday morning contains many advantageous suggestions.

Unusual Black Silk Bargains.

Very Special Sale of Black Taffetas Today.

Because of the recent strikes in Paterson and other silk centers, desirable silks have become exceedingly scarce, and consequently prices have risen accordingly.

Manufacturers, in many cases, are not able to make deliveries for two months to come. The silks offered in this sale represent early buying—before the troubles began, and the benefit is now yours.

21-inch guaranteed Black Taffetas, 65c yard—value 85c.

23-inch guaranteed Black Taffeta, 85c yard—value $1.

Early Fall Jackets, $7.50, $10, $15.

This is where we have an opportunity to offer extraordinary values for the prices, that have never been duplicated—not even by us—that are used to giving great values for little sums.

These cloth and silk Jackets comprise a large lot that we decided not to take on our inventory sheets some days ago. At a glance the remarkableness of the offer will be noticed.

The $7.50 Jackets sold for $12.50 and $15.

The $10 Jackets sold for $15 to $20.

The $15 Jackets sold for $20 to $30.

We owe it to you to say that sizes are a bit broken, that is in the several lines, but collectively they are unbroken.

Three New Styles Walking Skirts, Each $10.

Navy, tan, green, black, Habit back; buttons from hem to band. New two-toned effect in stitching.

Another with velvet piping around bottom and slashed between gores.

Still another of Scotch tweed mixtures, side pleated.

The Fine White Shirtwaists at Less Than Half Prices.

Said a good motherly soul Saturday: "I haven't saw such shirtwaists for many a day at such prices."

That sentence won't parse, but it effectively states what any woman will admit to be true, and many will be compelled to further admit they never saw anything like them for the prices without any qualification.

And how they are tripping out—literally flying.

We didn't tell you Friday and Saturday that we had an immense assortment. That wasn't the time.

All sizes today in Fisk, Clark & Flagg, Star, King and Knickerbocker — all styles, all materials, in white, at these prices—

$1.50 for $2.50 and $3 White Waists.

$2 for $3.50 and $4 White Waists.

$3 for $4.50 and $6 White Waists.

These waistings will be more popular than ever this coming Autumn.
